

EARLY MORNING MARRIAGE

Carl S. Orthman and Miss Elizabeth Ceary Wedded at 6 o'clock Today—Susie Smith to be Married Thursday.

ORTHMAN-CEARY. Carl S. Orthman, cashier of the Farmers Exchange bank at Neshkoro, Marquette county, and Miss Elizabeth N. Ceary, youngest daughter of the late Mrs. John Ceary, were married at St. Stephen's Catholic parsonage this morning at 6 o'clock, Rev. W. J. Rice officiating. The attendants were Miss Mayme and Edward Ceary, sister and brother of the bride. The bridegroom was of white mercerized batiste, with embroidery trimmings of baby Irish galoon. Miss Mayme Ceary also wore white.

The wedding party partook of breakfast at the Ceary home, 326 Franklin street, and at 9:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Orthman left here via automobile for Plover, where they boarded the branch line passenger train, and thence south to Portage, Swan Lake and Milwaukee, where they will spend ten days. After Sept. 1st the young couple will be "at home" in Neshkoro, a house being already completely furnished.

Carl was a Stevens Point resident for five years, coming here to accept the position of bookkeeper in the First National bank and was later promoted to assistant cashier. A year ago last spring he organized the Farmers Exchange bank at Neshkoro, located in a prosperous community surrounded by excellent farms and immense granite quarries, which bank opened for business July 6, 1908. The first statement showed deposits of $14,000 and the last one (June 23, '09) of approximately $50,000, which figures speak louder than words of the success of the institution. Besides being a careful and conscientious business man, Mr. Orthman is personally a prince of good fellows and well liked by all who know him.

The bride is one of our best girls, a native of this city and always resided among us. Since leaving school five years ago she has been bookkeeper and office manager for G. W. Hein, the insurance agent, which duties were performed with satisfaction to all concerned. Of a jolly, happy disposition, the young lady is also blessed with beauty of form and features. She has many accomplishments which will prove of valued aid and assistance to her in her new relations as a matron. The congratulations and well wishes of all are extended to Carl and Libby.

THIELL-SMITH.

At the home of the bride-to-be, 627 Elk street, Thursday evening at 9 o'clock, Rev. C. F. Spray, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, will unite in marriage Mr. John F. Thiehl, of Manitowoc, and Miss Susie Bliss Smith. The bride will be attended by her younger sister, Miss Marjorie Smith, and the best man is Alex Nelson. Guests here from a distance are Mr. and Mrs. Thiehl and their two sons, Misses Irma Raymond and Rose Gromme, of Fond du Lac. The latter two young ladies will assist in serving, as will also Misses Leda Barrows and Alice Rogers. A wedding supper, prepared by Mrs. Mary Mason, will be partaken of by the bridal party and members of their immediate families, and at 2:30 o'clock Friday morning John and his bride will leave for a short trip to Waupaca and Fond du Lac. They will then proceed to their future home at Manitowoc and immediately go to housekeeping.

Mr. Thiehl, who is a former Stevens Point young man, now fills the responsible position of office manager for the Manitowoc Boiler Works, one of the biggest concerns in eastern Wisconsin. He is the possessor of a good education, an exceptionally large amount of natural ability, and is a young man who has the respect and confidence of all who know him.

His bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. T. Smith and has always called Stevens Point home. She graduated from the Stevens Point High school in 1904 and later completed a course at the business college. The young lady then taught school for a year and a half, after which she accepted a position with the Mason-Danahy Lumber Co. near Rhineland, where she performed the duties of stenographer for nearly three years and was regarded by her employers as exceptionally capable. She is a bright, handsome and vivacious little lady and we are sure will be given a warm welcome at her new home in Manitowoc. Hundreds of friends in Stevens Point and elsewhere will join with us in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Thiehl many years of wedded happiness.

Brought East for Burial.

Lou Hunt, a prominent and successful business man of Spokane, Wash., and who a quarter of a century ago handled baggage on the Wisconsin Central, making Stevens Point his headquarters for several years, being well and favorably known to a number of our citizens, spent last Saturday afternoon and evening in the city. He was on his way home from Hortonville, where he had been with the remains of his father, Hamlin T. Hunt, who died suddenly from heart disease at Kellogg, near Wardner, Idaho, while on a visit. Being overcome while inspecting a mine in company with a friend, Mr. Hunt was taken out at once, but within an hour received a second attack and passed away in a few minutes. He was 65 years of age, a prominent Odd Fellow and G. A. R. member, and had lived near Hortonville since 1867. A widow and an only son survive, the latter having been very successful in the west, and especially since locating at Spokane, where he has been prominent in business circles for several years.

Pronounced Insane.

Mrs. Jas. P. Chapman, 251 Cleveland avenue, was taken to the Northern Hospital at Oshkosh, today, by Deputy Sheriff Coan, accompanied by Miss Louise Diver. Mrs. Chapman, who is about 40 years of age, has always been somewhat weak-minded, and of late her mental condition had become worse, making her dangerous to herself and aged husband, who is almost an invalid. After an examination by Drs. Southwick and Smiley on Tuesday she was pronounced insane. They have four children, the oldest a girl of about seventeen years.

THEY INDULGE IN BOOM

Plainfield is Progressive and is Building Handsome Bank and Other New Business Blocks.

Plainfield, down the Stevens Point-Portage branch of the Soo, has never been charged with being a boom town, but it has always been recognized as a live, wide-awake village, the home of a whole lot of good people and up-to-date in all things good and progressive. At the present time the indelible stamp of thrift and progress is more noticeable than ever before, and includes new business blocks, residences, etc. One of these is a large double store, built of solid brick and substantially constructed throughout, but the most noticeable is the handsome new structure which the Waushara County bank expects to occupy soon after Sept. 1st. This building is two stories, the first floor to be occupied by the bank, while the upper floor is divided into offices. Built of Colfax stone, light grey in color, with a smooth exterior finish, and colonial in architecture, when completed this will be by far the handsomest block in the village and is pointed to with pride by business men and citizens generally. The interior will be provided with fire and burglar proof vaults and safes, everything of the best in heating and plumbing, while the furniture and fixtures are being made especially for this bank. Beneath is a high, well-lighted basement, which will be rented for business purposes. Cashier Sargeant and his efficient assistant, Herbert Miller, are already beginning to show indications of undisguised pride and happiness as they ask, "what do you think of it?" and they certainly have reason to feel that way. Plainfield is all right in all respects, and as it is the market place for a rich and extensive surrounding country, it cannot fail to prosper.

Previous to last Friday the village had two hardware dealers, but on that day Fred B. Rawson bought out his competitor, the transfer representing a considerable sum in coin of the realm.

Baby Show at Opera House.

There will be a baby show at Grand Opera House for the week commencing Aug. 23d, and is a feature of the moving picture business that is as popular as it is novel. All entries must be in this week, and each must be accompanied by a photo of the little one who will contest for one of the rich prizes offered. These photos are sent to New York, where a picture is made for use in the slide and if you have a little one five years old or under, and whom you know is "just too cute for anything," this is your opportunity. Beginning Monday, Aug. 23, and continuing to and including Sunday evening, Aug. 29, these pictures will be thrown upon the screen each night. The names will not be given, but each photo will be numbered. The audiences will vote for their favorites by number. The baby receiving the highest number of votes will receive a beautiful diamond baby ring with the compliments of E. A. Arenberg; the second, a handsome neck chain from Reton Bros. & Co.; the third, choice of a pair of shoes from Alex Ringness; and the fourth, a Teddy Bear from the opera house management. Children cannot be entered who are over five years of age. The results will be announced on Aug. 30. For further information see W. L. Bronson, manager.

Some Badgers Successful.

So far as heard from no one from this city or county is among the prize winners in the western reservation land drawings, but yesterday Renguis Grad, of Rudolph, at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, drew No. 161, while Florence L. Buckstaff, of Oshkosh, secured No. 419 and Victor Larson, of Merrill, No. 456. Six other Badgers were also successful. An Oregon man drew No. 1 and men from Spokane the next two numbers. A dispatch says that several thousand people were gathered there when the drawing began. Each of the 105,000 persons applying for Coeur d'Alene lands has one chance in 333; each of the 100,000 applicants for Spokane lands one in 400, and of the 87,000 for Flathead land one in 15. Fifty-three cans of applications, weighing 2,685 pounds, were produced at the drawing. Three young girls, Helen Hamilton of Coeur d'Alene, Christian Dolan of Missoula and Harriet Potts of Spokane will draw the envelopes, and the drawing will not be concluded before Saturday.

Cup and Saucer Shower.

Mrs. Geo. Gemberling, Misses Ruby Tack and Mayme Podach entertained about 25 young lady friends at a cup and saucer shower at the Eugene Tack home on Strong's avenue, last Monday evening. The party was given in honor of Miss Elizabeth Ceary, whose marriage to C. S. Orthman took place this morning. First prize at what went to Miss Lula Ceary, who was given a handsome cup and saucer, and Miss Mary Tack received the consolation, a pretty plate. Refreshments were served and a general good time had.

ALL FREE ATTRACTIONS

A Few Good Things That You Can See Next Month at the Stevens Point Fair.

At the Stevens Point Fair, Sept. 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, 1909, one of the best acts in fearless mid-air feats of gymnastic cleverness and unrivaled display of aerial acrobism, mingled with the whirlwind tumbling exploits by Mlle Felice Amoros will be a grand feature. A highclass, up-to-date trapeze offering, which dainty, pretty experts perform with much grace and picturesque-ness, and the famous Tony Wilson, a world famous acrobat and inventor of the Trampolin, together with Mlle Heloise, will introduce something new in highclass toe dancing on the Trampolin. These acts, with their beautiful costumed performers, make the best free attractions ever booked by a county fair. One of these acts alone would be better than the attractions booked by most fairs, so you cannot help but get your money's worth at the Stevens Point Fair.

Additions to Normal Faculty.

Miss Sara Crow, Glen Ellyn, Ill., has been engaged as grammar grade critic at the Stevens Point Normal. Miss Crow comes with special preparation, made in the Oswego Normal school, University of Michigan and University of Chicago, and is at present attending the summer session of the Teachers' College, New York. She has done grammar grade work in public schools of Duluth, Minn., Grand Rapids, Mich., Evanston, Ill., and for the past two and a half years has been principal of the schools at Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Miss Elenora Flanagan, Clinton, Ia., has been engaged as supervisor of art. Miss Flanagan received her training in the Art School of Des Moines, Ia., after which she was for four years supervisor of art in the public schools of Clinton, Iowa, and for six years in the public schools of Dubuque, Ia. During the past year she attended the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y. It will be seen that both of these teachers have had large successful experience, and they come to us with the best of recommendations.

Blue Laws in Almond.

In the town of Almond, one week ago last Sunday, summonses were served on about 80 persons for attending a ball game in violation of section 4595 of the revised statutes, which provides a fine not exceeding $10 upon anyone who attends a dance or other public diversion on Sunday. A test case, with Frank Bowen as defendant, will be tried before Justice Plank and a jury one week from next Tuesday, the 24th inst. The prosecution was commenced by Alfred Dopp, chairman of the town. B. B. Park has been retained by the defendant, and Dist. Atty. Nelson will appear for the prosecution. The town of Almond is certainly liberal in its base ball patronage. In Stevens Point there has been scarcely a "corporal's guard" at any game played this season.

IS A BUNGLING BURGLAR

Residence on Pine Street Entered During Midnight Hour, and the Fellow Escaped With His Life.

"Peeping Pete," who was the cause of many scares and an innumerable amount of nervousness among residents of the 3d ward, a few months ago, seems to have awakened after a long rest and has changed his field of operations to the 2d ward. Jas. Ramage, an employee at the paper mills, resides at 321 Pine street, and on retiring for the night, last Sunday, the front door had unintentionally been left open, while the screen door was not latched. At about midnight Mrs. Ramage, who occupies a room on the first floor, was awakened by someone bumping against the foot of her bed. Looking up she saw the form of a man, and thinking it was Mr. Ramage, who was sleeping up stairs with their two children, she quietly said "well," but receiving no response, the fellow not even moving, she reached toward the window, pulled up the curtain and called to Mr. Ramage. At this the intruder disappeared with remarkable rapidity, going out the same way he came in, and when Mr. Ramage appeared on the scene, he was nowhere in sight. An investigation showed that there was nothing taken, the fellow having evidently been in the house but a few moments before his presence was made known by accidentally colliding with Mrs. Ramage's bed.

It will be remembered in the several recent successful and unsuccessful attempts to enter dwellings in the 3d ward, there was nothing missing, as in this instance, but the fellow may persist in his work until forced to carry off a charge of lead.

Wedding Trip to Coast.

Papers and letters recently received by The Gazette from Spokane, Wash., bring additional particulars of the marriage of Winfred Rothman and Miss Edith Ferriss Burr. The service was read by Dean Alfred Lockwood, of All Saints Episcopal cathedral, only the family and immediate friends of the young couple being present, including Miss Anna Ferriss, of this city, an aunt of the bride. The wedding tour includes a trip to the coast cities, a visit to the Seattle exposition and other points of interest. During the year that the bride spent at Spokane she had charge of the domestic science department in a new High school on the north side of the city, and was given full power to equip the same, which she did to the satisfaction of all.

Covered Many Miles.

T. J. Anders and C. E. Van Hecke, with members of their families and Maurice and Clyde Van Hecke of Chicago, covered 130 miles by automobile last Sunday. They left here at 4 a. m., going direct to Merrill, where some of the more devout members of the party attended divine service and then proceeded several miles north of that city to a lake resort. The two autos and their passengers returned to Merrill for dinner at John Van Hecke's home, where they remained until about 2:30 o'clock. On the trip south they stopped at Mosinee and several other points, reaching home at 8:30. Not a mishap was encountered and all pronounced the outing a delightful one.

Postponed to Friday.

The ice cream social which was to have been given on Rev. W. J. Rice's lawn this afternoon and evening has been postponed until Friday afternoon and evening, on account of the rain. The ladies who were to furnish cakes are requested to bring them Friday.

SOME GOOD INVESTMENTS

Opportunity to Buy Business Blocks at the Right Prices—Also Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Etc.

Intending to retire from business, I offer at a bargain my brick store and three saloon buildings located on the north west corner of public square. Also a good hay scales in firstclass order and well patronized. These buildings and scales are located in the best business part of the city of Stevens Point and will be sold at a bargain. If not sold within a short time I will rent the scales, store and saloon building now occupied by myself. Will also sell all my stock of clothing, gents' furnishing goods, shoes, etc., as well as my stock of liquors, counters, store and saloon fixtures, etc. During the next few weeks I will sell at retail all articles in my store at prices that cannot fail to convince you that you are saving money by giving me a call.

FRANK BOYANOWSKI,

Impressions of the West.

James Tovey returned last Friday afternoon from his western trip, having been gone upwards of three weeks, and comes back more firmly convinced than ever that Portage county offers more and better inducements to the home seeker than almost any portion of the much advertised west. Mr. Tovey is a practical farmer, having always lived in the town of Stockton until a few months ago, when he moved to a tract of land in Carson township. He therefore knows something about soil. The only really good land he saw on the entire journey to the Pacific coast and back via the Canadian Pacific through Canada, was on the reservation to be opened above Kalispell, Mont. Mr. Tovey feels well repaid for the time and money expended on the long journey, as he saw many interesting sights and picked up ideas that will prove of direct benefit, and also had the pleasure of meeting old friends at Spokane and other points.

Saturday morning Barney Polebitski and N. J. Knope, who were members of the party who left here at the time Mr. Tovey did, arrived home and report having had a very enjoyable trip. They met friends at a number of different points, including Bellingham, Spokane, Portland and Seattle, visited the exposition in the latter city, and marched in line with the great army of land seekers, a few of whom will be presented with a lucky number in due time, the drawing having commenced on Monday, while the vast majority will know by the non-receipt of official information that they were "not in it."

Mrs. C. B. Baker and daughter, Miss Frances, returned from their visit to Portland, Ore., and other points in that and neighboring states last Friday morning, their trip being especially undertaken to visit with Mrs. Baker's sister-in-law, Mrs. F. L. Dille. At Portland they had the pleasure of attending a picnic where nineteen present or former Stevens Pointers enjoyed themselves. Mr. Baker left here on Thursday morning expecting to meet his wife and daughter in the west, the plan of neither one having been communicated to the other, and it was a great surprise to all when they met at the depot in St. Paul on Thursday evening. After some persuasion Mr. Baker was induced to continue his trip. While the ladies enjoyed their visit immensely and saw much magnificent scenery, they are not overly impressed with the coast country as a place of permanent residence. That section is bound to grow and prosper, however, because every man, woman and child located in the larger towns, especially, has appointed himself or herself a booster committee and they lose no opportunity to advertise their city or community.

CELEBRATES FIRST MASS

Large Congregation Join in Services Conducted by Rev. Casimir Shippy, at St. Peter's, Last Sunday.

As previously announced, Rev. Casimir Shippy, a native of Portage county and a son of Mr. John Shippy, who resides at the corner of Franklin and Grant streets, celebrated his first mass at St. Peter's church in this city at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The services were attended by a very large congregation, the church being filled to its utmost capacity. The newly ordained young clergyman acted as celebrant, with Rev. L. J. Pescinski as assistant celebrant, Rev. Frank Nowak of Green Bay as deacon, Rev. Joe C. Knitter of Milwaukee as sub-deacon and Lawrence Maselski of Green Bay as master of ceremonies. Rev. Father Anthony of Green Bay preached an eloquent sermon in the Polish language, and other clergymen who occupied seats within the chancel rail were Rev. D. G. Bankowski of Detroit, Rev. S. A. Elbert of Fancher, Rev. A. J. Worol of Chicago, Rev. W. B. Polaczky of Casimir, Rev. M. Klossowski of Plover, Rev. A. Forsysak of Mill Creek, Rev. Father Wojak of Grand Rapids and Rev. P. J. Sokoll, assistant pastor of St. Peter's. At the close of the ceremonies, Father Shippy gave communion to the members of his family and other relatives, after which he pronounced his blessing upon the people and clergy present.

Between 150 and 200 people, including the clergymen above mentioned and also Rev. W. J. Rice and Rev. H. J. Ehr, of this city, assembled at the home of the young priest's mother, after mass, where a sumptuous repast was served and the occasion duly observed throughout the afternoon. Timely words of congratulation were spoken by several of those present, including Fathers Pescinski, Rice, Polaczky and Worol.

The young clergyman will in due time be installed as pastor at some point in the Green Bay diocese, but just where he will go is yet unknown. For eight and one-half years he was a student at the Detroit Theological seminary, but owing to ill health was transferred to Denver, Col., where he was ordained after studying for about one and one-half years. He is an able young man and will no doubt be an honor to his priestly calling.

Their Golden Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hull, the venerable parents of Irving S. Hull and Mrs. W. B. Pett, of this city, were married fifty years ago last Saturday, and the event was observed in a quiet way at the home of the latter, 918 Main street, with whom they have resided during the past fifteen years. Both have lived in Wisconsin most of their lives, were married at Greenville, Outagamie county, and are still in the enjoyment of excellent health for people of their age, with good prospects for at least several more years of peace, quiet and happiness among relatives and friends here below.

WILL BUILD A STANDPIPE

Jackson Milling Co. to Have Excellent Fire Protection, and Also New Steam Heating Plant.

Several stockholders and directors of the Jackson Milling Co., including T. E. Nash, Guy Nash, L. P. Witter, Geo. W. Meade and J. P. Horton, all of Grand Rapids, met in this city last Thursday, coming here for the purpose of looking over the plant and arranging for improvements as proposed by the local manager, H. H. Pagel. The most important of these will be the erection of an immense water standpipe or tank to furnish adequate fire protection, in which the company feels that it is now deficient. An improvement of this kind means a large outlay in cash, but in time the company will be reimbursed by the annual decrease in amount of insurance that it will pay.

Another improvement to be made by the company in the local plant is a complete steam heating plant, not only the several stories of the mill to be heated and kept comfortable during the winter, but the office as well, and for which work a contract has been awarded to Jas. B. Sullivan & Co. The necessary boilers, piping, radiators, etc., will soon be on the grounds ready to install.

A Bountiful Rain.

Rain that commenced at about 5 o'clock this morning, bringing good cheer to farmers and people in general in Portage county, as well as elsewhere, and promises to continue throughout the day, has broken the backbone of a drought that has lasted for several weeks. Corn and potatoes especially have suffered for want of rain, and for several days had begun to shrivel and change in color, and while the harvest will not be as abundant as it would have been had the rain come sooner, it will be far from a failure. A rain last Sunday in some parts of the county did much good.

LaGraves-Caris Nuptials.

Clarence LaGraves and Miss Estella May Parks were married at 9 o'clock this morning at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Smart, on Church street, in the 6th ward, Rev. James Blake officiating. The witnesses were Edward Shepard and Miss Hale, of Big Flats, Adams county, friends of the bride and groom, who came here to assist in the important event. They commenced housekeeping at once in a residence already furnished on Division street. Mr. LaGraves is a paper mill employee, a popular young man, and the bride, who also has many friends in the city, has made her home with her aunt for the past few years.

The Linwood Creamery.

The Linwood creamery, which was nearly down and out for some time, is again becoming a leading factor in that town and notwithstanding the dry season its output is increasing. This creamery is now managed by F. E. Clark, of Rudolph, an expert butter-maker, assisted by Fred Giese as treasurer. Patrons are paid promptly every two weeks, confidence thereby being restored, and their checks at present amount to a total of about $500, or about $1,000 per month. The output is not only being increased, but the quality of the product is also of the purest and best, commanding a ready market at top-notched prices. This creamery was started a few years ago, but little effort was made for some time to build it up and increase its business, which Mr. Clark is now doing.

MERCY HOSPITAL NOTES

Some New Patients Received During the Week—How the Sick and Injured are Doing.

David Nollop, of Sechlerville, Jackson county, had a cataract removed from one of his eyes at Mercy hospital this forenoon, the operation being performed by Dr. Alcorn assisted by Dr. Walters.

Edwin Miller, whose illness with appendicitis was mentioned last week, was operated upon at Mercy hospital on Thursday evening by Dr. von Neupert, Jr., assisted by Dr. Rice. The patient is doing nicely and will soon be about and better than ever.

Mrs. J. M. Kluck, who was badly hurt in a runaway accident a week before, was brought to Mercy hospital last Monday and is now under the care of Dr. von Neupert. A bone in one of her lower limbs is believed to have been cracked and the ankle was badly sprained. Mrs. Kluck will be at the hospital a month or more.

Hyman Fischer, the 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fischer, proprietors of the second hand store on Clark street, met with a serious accident, last Monday evening. With other neighborhood boys he had been engaged in running what they termed a circus, having erected a canvas tent for that purpose. At about 7 o'clock on Monday evening, while at work in taking down the tent, the center pole tumbled over and fell upon Hyman, breaking a couple of ribs on the right side and otherwise injuring him internally, including the penetration of one of his lungs and also the diaphragm, at the same time affecting the abdomen. This has caused peritonitis, with slight symptoms of pneumonia, and although the boy has suffered considerably since the accident, he is feeling some better today. He has been attended by Drs. von Neupert and Gregory, who at first deemed an operation necessary. But this may be avoided and the best is hoped for.

A LIBERAL OFFER.

TRUE DIGNITY AND HONOR

New Wisconsin Attorneys Are Called Upon to Take a More Binding Oath Than Heretofore.

One of the most interesting of the new statutes passed by the legislature, is one relating to the admission of lawyers to the bar. The new law provides that the attorneys shall subscribe to an oath before being admitted, and the oath is one that is interesting. The oath is that the new attorney will support the state and nation, maintain due respect to courts of justice and judicial offices and further adds: "I will not consent or maintain any suit of proceeding, which shall appear to me unjust, or any defense, except such as I believe to be honestly debatable under the laws of the land. "I will employ for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided to me, such means only as are consistent with truth and honor, and will never seek to mislead the judge or jury by any artifice or false statement of act or law. "I will maintain the confidence and preserve inviolate the secrets of my client and will accept no compensation in connection with his business except from or with his knowledge and approval."

Dr. Fred Campbell Married.

Dr. C. Fred Campbell, of Almond, and Miss Charlotte T. Olsen, of Sheridan, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seger Olsen, at 12 o'clock noon last Wednesday, Rev. Ole Nilsson, of Scandinavia, officiating. They were attended by Winfred and Miss Thelma Olsen, brother and sister of the bride, and the ceremony was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties, including Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cunneen, of this city, the latter being a sister of the groom. The bride and groom left that afternoon for Green Bay, where they boarded a steamer for a week's bridal trip on the lakes.

Dr. Campbell was born and raised in Stevens Point, being the only son of Mrs. J. C. Campbell, 504 Strong's avenue, and after graduating in dentistry from the Milwaukee Medical College, practiced for two or three years at Racine and the first of the present year located in our neighboring village of Almond, where he is meeting with good and well deserved professional success, he being a young man of sterling worth and strict integrity. The bride is one of Waupaca county's fairest daughters, a graduate from the Stevens Point Normal, class of 1905, and since her graduation had been engaged in teaching at Racine most of the time. Dr. and Mrs. Campbell will soon be nicely located in their new home at Almond.

Notice to Peddlers.

Notice is hereby given to all peddlers and hawkers to call at the city offices and procure a license, providing they desire to continue in business. If strict compliance with this request is not adhered to, arrests will follow. John Hafsoos, Chief of Police.

BIDS FOR COAL.

D., to visit the McHugh families, all of whom are doing well and enjoying good health.

FROM "SHOW ME" STATE MORE IRRIGATED LANDS

LeRoy Williams Writes Interestingly of Crops and Politics Way Down in Old Missouri.

Macon, Mo., July 30, 1906.
Macon county is the third county south of the Iowa line and also the third west of the Illinois line. It has an area of 519,000 acres and the watershed between the Mississippi and Missouri rivers crosses it from north to south. In fact part of the drainage from Macon, the county seat, goes one way, the rest the other. A branch of Salt river crosses the southeast part and the Chariton river runs clear across the county near the west side. Both have wide and very rich bottoms, the Chariton particularly so, and when a crop matures its equal cannot be found anywhere.

By crop I mean corn, for that is what is almost universally raised; a few farmers grow wheat and with good results, but the average Missourian learned corn first and looks upon any change in the regular routine as an innovation, and a regard for precedent seems to be the predominant trait in his character. You've heard the expression, "Show me; I'm from Missouri!"

The trouble, however, is that there is no certainty of a crop maturing on the bottom lands, for the rains can overflow the bottom almost without an effort. The drainage is rough, so rain gets into the valley very quickly, the channel is tortuous and along the channel the fall is only one to two inches per mile, therefore floods are frequent, sometimes receding quickly and not doing serious damage and again ruining everything for the year. An excellent specimen of the latter came on the forepart of this month; indeed the water reached a point above all previous records, and a first-class prospect for a bumper crop was absolutely destroyed. Since about 30 per cent. of the county's agricultural land is bottom, this means a serious loss to the community.

Last year it was the same as this, but two years ago fortune was kind and the farmers' memories of that crop and of previous hits are the explanation of the long chances he takes on losing his year's work. These conditions are gradually being remedied by straightening the channel and concentrating the fall in the shorter distance, thereby getting a faster runoff; one case I know of three miles of ditch took the place of 30 miles of river, giving a fall of about 20 inches to the mile instead of two. Eventually this will be done all along the valley and then, with the assurance of an annual crop, land now worth 35 to 40 dollars per acre will not be in the market at $150.

The upland is exceedingly fertile but unless it lays very level, which is not often, it cannot be cultivated more than a year or two before it begins to wash and add its quota to the richness of the bottom lands; however, in meadow it grows a bluegrass that is unequalled anywhere and I notice wherever a farmer has given up crops and turned his attention to stock he is getting more out of his land than his neighbors. So eventually, I believe, this section will develop into an immense stock fattening district, the necessary grain being raised on the contiguous bottoms.

Macon county produces annually over a million dollars worth of coal, only one county in the state leading it. Ninety-five per cent. of this is mined in the territory adjacent to Bevier and is shipped from there.

I have made that place my home for the last eight years previous to 1900, and was married there in 1903. Last November I was elected county surveyor and this spring I moved to Macon.

During my campaign last year I was amused several times by some of the old time Democrats, who consider an inquiry into a candidate's pedigree as an essential to their determination to support or not, exclaiming, on being told I was born and raised in Wisconsin, "From Wisconsin and a Democrat?!!!" and sometimes it required considerable power of persuasion to convince them it was possible. So, friend Glennon, you see how sanguine the Solid South feels over the efforts of the "Faithful" in the north to accomplish anything. But since the state refused to endorse Bryan and elected Hadley, the old Democrat only shakes his head and growls, and is ready to believe anything; but of this you may be sure, when election time comes around again neither rain, crops, sickness nor anything else will keep him away from the polls, lest his be the vote needed to redeem Missouri.

My thoughts are often in Stevens Point and the weekly visits of The Gazette never fail of a welcome.

Sincerely yours,
L. D. Williams.

Lanark Young Man Drowns.

The Milwaukee papers of Friday, July 30th, contained accounts of the drowning of Anthony Loftis, a St. Paul railroad fireman, in the Milwaukee river the afternoon before. He had gone in bathing with a companion and was seized with cramps, going to the bottom before help could reach him.

Anthony was the youngest son of Mrs. Katherine Loftis of Lanark and a brother of several of the leading citizens of that and Buena Vista townships. He was born in Lanark 26 years ago, but since reaching his majority he had been employed at railroad work. Only recently Anthony passed an examination for engineer on the St. Paul road.

Besides the widowed mother, there are living six brothers and two sisters, William, Michael, Thomas, John and Miss Jane Loftis, of Portage county; Matt of South Dakota, Patrick of Moley, Minn., and Mrs. J. Reynolds of Wisconsin Veterans' Home.

The remains were brought to his boyhood home and funeral services conducted at St. Patrick's church on Monday morning of last week, Rev. J. E. Meagher officiating. Interment was in the parish cemetery. A delegation of nine members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen acted as an escort. Many old friends were present to pay a last tribute of respect to one of the best and truest young men they ever knew. On account of poor train connections and the long distance he had to travel, Matt Loftis reached Lanark too late for the burial.

Miss Eva Koehl has returned from a pleasant visit with Chicago friends.

Seventy Thousand Acres in Montana to be Opened to Settlers During First Week in October.

Arrangements have been completed for the opening of 70,000 acres of choice irrigated lands on the Valier, Montana, tract October 7th, 1906. The days set for registering claims are October 1st, 2nd, 4th, 5th and 6th. Everything is being planned for handling the crowds comfortably and for conducting the drawing without delay or discomfort. This Carey segregation is to be thrown open to the public at reasonable terms. The price and terms set by the State Land Board is $40.50 per acre, including land and perpetual water rights which are the oldest and best established in the state. The first payment required is $3.50 per acre; fifteen years are allowed in which to complete the payments. The land will grow as good crops as the best $200 an acre soil of the corn belt without their uncertainty of seasons, and home-seekers will doubtless gobble up the 70,000 acres of irrigated land very quickly.

A correspondent writes that if a man were to take moving pictures showing the growth of the town of Valier, Montana, he would have to stay on the job; only one picture a day would make skips on the film which would look like lost chapters in a popular novel. There have been towns of the mushroom variety which sprung up in a night and there have been many western towns which like Topsy, "just grew." The average town anywhere is not usually a thing of beauty, created from the beginning with continuity of purpose like the building of a handsome house by a good architect. The distinction which Valier enjoys is in being well built from the start. It has been planned with wise forethought and along lines of what may be called scientific city building. The sentiment is to make a solid and substantial town, not a superficial crazy quilt. The town will not be allowed to scatter itself along the railroad track nor just grow haphazard fashion.

Work on the irrigation project is nearing completion. The dam is virtually completed. Water is running in the main canal and water will be delivered on all irrigated lands by next spring. The construction company which is building the irrigation system have given heavy bonds for the completion of the work on time. The Montana & Western railroad connects Valier with the town of Conrad twenty miles away on the Great Northern.

Have Returned Home.

Two young men who had been patients at Mercy hospital in this city for several weeks, Edward Rozum and Wm. Brey, were able to return to their respective homes at Milladore, the last of the week. The former was badly injured by jumping from a train at Junction City, July 4th, and it is possible that his left hip may be permanently stiffened to a slight degree. Otherwise there will be no bad effects. Mr. Brey was injured by the boiler explosion on the Dancy drainage district, a couple of months ago, where one man was killed. One of his arms is still crippled, but Dr. von Neupert hopes to relieve this by an operation.

Mrs. Geo. Lukaszevig, of Custer, who had a serious case of blood poisoning in one of her hands, has fully recovered and returned home.

Death of Judge Lamoreux.

Judge Silas W. Lamoreux, a gentleman who was well and favorably known throughout the state, died at his home in Beaver Dam at 7 o'clock last Thursday evening, the result of diabetes and blood poisoning, he having long suffered with the first named disease and the latter trouble resulted from a scratch on one of his hands while fishing. The deceased, who was a brother of the late O. H. Lamoreux of Plover, was born at Lennox, N. Y., March 8, 1843, and with his parents came to Plover when nine years of age, but a year later they moved to Mayville, Dodge county, and that place had been his home until he moved to

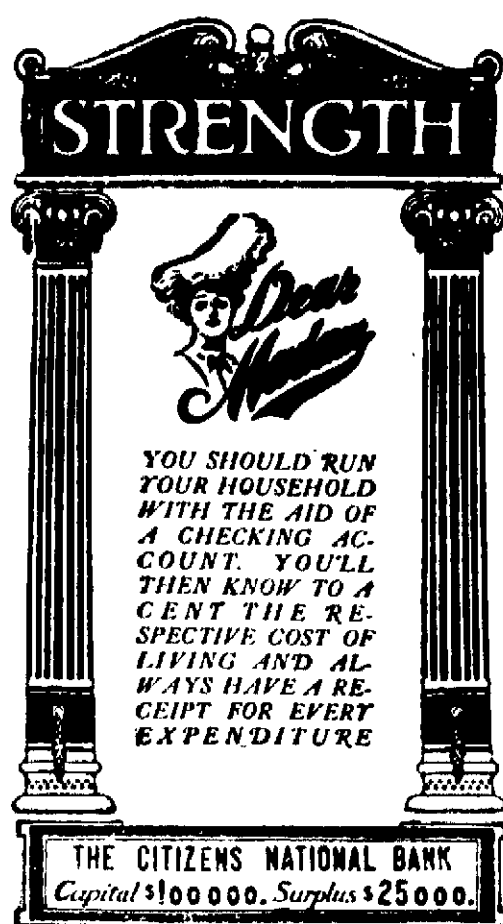

SILAS W. LAMOREUX.

Beaver Dam a few years ago. When a young man, however, he studied law in the office of Hanchett & Raymond, at Plover, for a time.

Former President Grover Cleveland appointed Mr. Lamoreux United States land commissioner during his second administration. He was elected a member of Wisconsin legislature in 1872 and judge of Dodge county in 1877, which office he held several years. After removing to Beaver Dam he engaged in the iron manufacturing business and was one of the heaviest stockholders in the Beaver Dam Malleable Iron company plant, one of the largest in the west, and was also president of the First National bank of that place. He was admitted to the bar when 21 years old.

For Second Hand Dealers.

A fine not exceeding $100 nor less than $10 or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding six months or both such fine and imprisonment may be imposed on any second hand dealer who fails to notify the chief of police of the city within twenty-four hours of any purchase of any article composed in whole or in part of gold, silver, precious stone, etc., giving the name and address and description of the person from whom the article was obtained.

The dealer must keep a book for the purpose and enter in ink a correct description in English of all second hand articles of this nature purchased by him and the name and address of the person from whom the article or articles are obtained. The book shall be open at all times to the inspection of the chief of police or any member of the force and shall have no erasures or obliterations. The police may hold an article received by the dealer for any reasonable length of time he may deem necessary for the identification of the article.

This law can be found in chapter ten of the laws passed during the last session of the legislature.

THE COUNTRY PAPER

It Is Worth More Than It Costs, Fifty-Two Times Over—Views of a Mississippian.

The most scantily appreciated piece of property in the world is the country newspaper. Two dollars for a country paper is the cheapest investment a man ever makes. It brings richer and more abundant returns than any other investment at that amount. Fifty-two times in the 12 months we collect the interest. Fifty-two times in a year our wives and children gather from that paper some paragraph of information, some item of news, some gleam of patriotism, some moral sentiment, some ray of hope, some stimulus to greater and nobler effort that is worth more than the cost of the paper.

Perhaps we are not aware, at the time, that we are receiving any benefits from this modest weekly visitor, but do not turn it away from your door without listening to its simple message. It is a faithful missionary and is sowing in the minds and hearts of your children little seeds that in time will spring up and bring forth fruit one hundred fold.

Bill Arp once said that there never was a country paper that was not worth many times more than the price paid for it. He said, for instance, his father came from New England to Georgia. He was a stranger in a strange land, without money or friends; he stopped in a little village and paid for the country newspaper. In the first number he saw a notice of a teacher wanted for a little country school. He immediately applied and was elected. In that school was a bright-eyed, curly haired little girl. When the school closed he was in love with her. He married her and she was Bill Arp's mother.

Now, says Arp: "If my father had not subscribed for that little country paper he would never gotten that school; he would never have seen that little girl, and I might have been somebody else."

And, we may safely add, the world might never have enjoyed the golden fruits of Bill Arp's pen. This is a humorous illustration, but a very apt one, of the hundreds of ways in which little bits of information gleaned from the country paper may lead to great events and happy results.

Over Seas by Balloon.

Shall we go to Europe by balloon? Yes, say the Wrights, the most daring and successful navigators of the air which the world has yet produced. Yes, says H. Helm Clayton, America's most distinguished meteorologist, who has for sixteen years made a careful study of upper air currents. Not only may we go, taking advantage of what has become known to meteorologists as "the great highway of the air," but we may return, for this highway is not a one way route but issues return tickets to all who will study its schedules and take advantage of them with the proper equipment. The rails of this vast circuit road of the upper air are laid, so to speak, even the motive power is provided; the knowledge of the schedules has been furnished us by Professor Clayton and other careful scientific observers; the only remaining need is the safe and sure equipment for reaching this upper air current and staying in it until the desired point is reached, and men daring enough to trust their lives to the first voyage and thus point the way to thousands of eager followers.

In other words, a balloon several miles high at the latitude of Boston, finds a wind blowing from west to east which is as dependable as the motion of the earth itself, which will whisk it across 3,000 miles of sea at a rate of speed far exceeding that of the swiftest ocean liner. At a point near the equator it would find an equally steady return current which would waft it at equal speed back to America. With a dirigible, capable of seeking favorable winds or proceeding against moderately unfavorable ones to traverse the space from England to the Canary Islands or from Key West to Boston it can be seen that a circuit would be established which would have great possibilities, even to the revolutionizing of the passenger service between this country and Europe.—From "To Europe by Balloon" in September Technical World Magazine.

Senator Stone of Missouri deserves a Carnegie hero medal. The Senator, while riding from New York to Washington, was subjected to the grossest impertinence by a waiter in the dining car and the statesman—who is not the great burly ruffian he has been described in the papers, but a slight man of under rather than over medium strength—slapped the waiter's face. Anyone who has quailed before the majestic bearing of a Pullman porter and meekly caten a number of things he did not order rather than risk the impertinence sure to be incurred if he politely asked the waiter to bring him what he did order, will throw up his hat for "Gumshoe Bill" Stone. He may have inaugurated the emancipation of the traveler. Who knows? But whether or not the remainder of the traveling public has the courage to follow up the advantage gained for them by the Missouri statesman's valor, certain it is that "Gumshoe Bill" has pointed the way and that if his fellow citizens resume their groveling attitude before the haughty functionaries of the Pullman and the dining car they have only themselves to blame.

Pensive Butlers.

The fashion of building houses with the entrance doors practically on a level with the street gives the observing stroller on Fifth avenue some humorous glimpses of butlers on duty. In the house of one of the most fashionable families in town the butler can be seen standing behind the bronze grill and glass doors staring disconsolately out at the passing throng for most of the afternoon, while across the street from this house the same kind of an entranceway often discloses a glimpse of a functionary of the same class seated in a poetical attitude by a circular marble table, his head supported by his hand. Outside of a hospital they are probably the saddest looking men in New York.—New York Press.

GOT HIM CHEAP.

The Way a Famous Surgeon Was Once Cleverly Tricked.

Sir Morel Mackenzie once received a wire from Antwerp asking him his charges for a certain operation. He replied £500 and was told to come at once. When he stepped upon the dock he was met by three men in mourning, who informed him sadly that he had come too late, the patient had died.

"But," said the spokesman of the party, "we shall pay you your full fee." And they did. "And now," said the man, "since you are here, what do you say to visiting the city hospital and giving a clinic for the benefit of our local surgeons? It is not often they have an opportunity of benefiting by such science as yours."

Sir Morel said he would gladly comply. He went to the hospital and performed many operations, among which were two of a similar nature to that for which he had been called for. When he had finished all thanked him profusely. On the steamer going home he met a friend, who had a business house in Antwerp.

"Pretty sorry trick they played on you, Sir Morel."

"What do you mean?" asked the surgeon.

"Told you the patient died before you arrived, didn't they?"

"Yes."

"Les. You operated on him and a friend with the same trouble at the clinic. Got two operations for one price."

HE WAS EXCITED.

And Yet He Was Making Only a Very Reasonable Request.

It was a dramatic scene, pregnant with the most tragic possibilities. Thus thought a witness to the meeting of three Italians near the big express depot at Fifteenth and Market streets. A man and woman who were delivering a trunk into the hands of a clerk were suddenly confronted by another man, who was highly excited. He approached the woman. In voluble Italian he raved and swore and pleaded, while she shrieked equally excited answers. The other man stood back against the wall, his arms folded defiantly, his head sunk on his chest. It certainly looked as if daggers were to be drawn. The interested bystander asked of some listeners who understood the rapidly spluttered dialect what the trouble was all about.

"Why," was the volunteered translation, "this woman has run away from her husband with this man," pointing to the sulky individual.

"Oh, and he is begging her to return?" was the next query.

"Not on your life," was the expressive reply. "She has packed up all her husband's clothes in her trunk, as well as her own, and he is begging her to give back at least his Sunday suit."—Philadelphia Record.

Baked Men.

Workers in porcelain factories are literally baked, but by some miracle of use and wont they remain sufficiently underdone to live. At least if they are not quite baked they endure a stronger heat than that which browns the Sunday sirloin. The furnaces wherein porcelain is finished are kept at the fiercest heat used in any industry. A chain of workmen, their heads and bodies swathed in fireproof garments, take the finished pieces from the fire one at a time and pass them to the cooling room. The man at the head of this chain—he who stands nearest the furnace—can work in only five minute shifts. In his interims of rest he lies on a mattress drinking glass after glass of ice water from the hands of a small boy. At lunchtime all about the chain of men steaks grill.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Just Tolerable.

Concerning a certain time serving Washington clergyman of whom a visitor was one day expressing a harsh estimate President Lincoln said:

"I think you are rather hard on Mr. —. He reminds me of a man in Illinois who was arrested for passing a counterfeit bill. He admitted that he had taken it to a bank cashier to know if it was a good bill. 'Well, what was the reply of the cashier?' asked his lawyer. 'Why,' evasively answered the prisoner, 'he said it was a pretty tolerable, respectable sort of a bill.'"

Mr. Lincoln thought the clergyman "a pretty tolerable, respectable sort of a clergyman."

At Close Range.

"Who is that neglected looking little boy with dirt over his face?"

"He is the child of the noted astronomer who lives over the way."

"Oh, is he? Come here, sonny. Run home and tell your father he doesn't need his telescope if he wants to see spots on the sun."—Baltimore American.

KILLED THE JAGUAR.

The Terrible Boa Constrictor of the Mexican Jungle.

I had been travelling for about an hour, trying to locate the source of the Santa Rita and winning every inch of ground by hacking and slashing with the machete, when I was startled by a most fearful scream, which seemed to come from somewhere immediately behind me. Turning round and looking back over the trail I had just made, I saw a great commotion taking place among the vines, dead leaves and decaying branches which carpeted the ground, and the blood-curdling screams I had heard rang out again and again. Returning a little nearer, I discovered a "tiger," or, properly speaking, a jaguar or American leopard, and it was writhing in the coils of an enormous boa constrictor. The great snake appeared to have the side of the jaguar's head in its mouth and a coil or two of its body around the neck of the beast, which was making frantic efforts to regain its liberty. The snake had its tail coiled round a small elony tree about a foot in diameter, and whenever the hapless jaguar relaxed its efforts the serpent would swiftly release itself from the tree and make an attempt to get another coil around the body of its opponent.

I stood there fascinated with horror and yet forgetting my fear in the interest I was taking in this terrible fight between beast and reptile. Presently the snake with an incomprehensibly quick movement succeeded in getting two more coils around the body of the jaguar, but not without receiving severe laceration from the formidable claws of its victim. Then, letting go the jaguar's head, where it seemed to have a firm hold, the boa constrictor raised its head seemingly in triumph and, with its tail still wrapped round the tree, lifted the body of the jaguar up in the air. I heard the bones crack under the fearful strain, and with one awful, despairing scream the jaguar fell back, dead!—World Wide Magazine.

Stoats Hunt In Packs.

In some years stoats appear to be more numerous than in others, and they are seen not in ones and twos, but in dozens, hunting together in small packs. Stoats will hunt together from scent and in full cry like a pack of hounds, one always keeping the line and followed closely by the others. This sight has been recorded by different observers who have also seen weasels hunting in the same way.—Fur News.

The Resemblance.

Likewise Mistaken.

A small boy was fishing on Sunday morning. He had a basket of fish alongside of him. A clergyman happened to see him and, going over to where he was busily watching the bob, said:

"You naughty, cruel boy! Don't you know that it is a sin to fish on the Sabbath? Besides the sin, think of the cruelty of it taking the poor little worm out of the ground and sticking that nasty sharp hook through its body."

"That ain't no worm. That's an artificial fly," answered the boy.

"Ah, I was mistaken," said the preacher.

"So were these fish," said the boy, picking up the basket and showing them to the clergyman.—New York Sun.

After Hours.

Some years ago on a day set apart for humiliation and prayer a manufacturer offered to pay his workmen their wages on condition that they attended church. To this they readily agreed.

Shortly before evening service one of the employees called at his employer's residence and told the servant he wished "to see the maister."

"Now, Jack, what do you want?"

"Well, sor, me and ma myets hev been basking the thing over, and we'd like to knae if we gan to church the next do we get overtime for?"—London Spare Moments.

Her Mind Easy.

"I hear you are going to Australia with your husband, Kitty," said the mistress. "Aren't you nervous about the long voyage?"

"Well, ma'am," said Kitty calmly, "that's his lookout. I belong to him now and if anything happens to me it'll be his loss, not mine."—London Mall.

No Sand In Sandpaper.

"There is no sand in sandpaper," said the manufacturer. "It is powdered glass that does the business. That's where the broken bottles go to." He nodded toward a mass of broken bottles in the yard. "We powder the glass into half a dozen grades," he said. "We coat our paper with an even layer of hot glue. Then without loss of time we spread on the glass powder. Finally we run a wooden roller lightly over the sheets to give them a good surface. When in the past they made sandpaper of sand it wouldn't do a quarter of the work that glass paper does."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bride's Pie Joke.

Her—Richard! Why on earth are you cutting your pie with a knife? Him—Because, darling—now, understand, I'm not finding any fault, for I know that these little oversights will occur—because you forgot to give me a can opener.—Cleveland Leader.

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps.

Recipe For Goodness.

Half of the wickedness of life is owing to misery. Make a man happy and he is good. He revives like a flower refreshed by the dew of heaven; he becomes sanguine, enthusiastic, energetic.—London Graphic.

Loving hearts are like poor folks—they are contented with whatever is given to them.—Swatchline.

Personal and News Items of More or Less Importance to Readers of The Gazette.

Jas. L. McCadden, the North Fond du Lac justice and insurance man, was in town last Sunday.

Mrs. Lem. Crossman and children have gone to Chicago for a month's visit among relatives.

Miss Pearl King has been visiting with her friend, Miss Pearl McCadden, of North Fond du Lac, for a few days.

Michael Rose and wife went to Minneapolis on the morning train last Thursday to visit among relatives a few days.

Miss Hazel Anderson, of Menominee, Mich., arrived in the city last week for an extended visit with her friend, Miss Hazel Clark.

Miss Jessie Shidel, who had been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Shidel, in this city, returned to her home at Amherst last Friday.

Chas. F. Hase went to Seymour and other places along the Green Bay road, the first of the week, in the interest of the Martin Automatic Carrier Co.

Miss Margaret Koehl returned to Chicago, last Friday, where she is employed as a trained nurse, after spending an enjoyable vacation at her home in this city.

Miss Sadie Herman is visiting with her friend, Miss Sarah St. Mary, at Wausau, having accompanied the latter, who had been visiting here, to her home in that city.

Engineer C. A. Gardiner and wife have moved from N. Fond du Lac to Marshfield to reside, and he is now running on the Soo between the latter city and Neokosa.

Mrs. Mary Moerke, who has been teaching at Blue Island, Ill., for the past few years, is spending part of the summer vacation as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Moerke in this city.

Miss Susie Smith was the guest of honor at a plate shower given by Miss Frances Baker, at her home on Elk street, last Saturday evening, when fourteen other young ladies were present.

Chas. Wilson, a recent graduate from the High school, is now employed as night yard clerk for the Soo company in this city, succeeding Frank Pfiffner, who was promoted to ticket clerk at the passenger station.

W. G. Preston, the successful laundryman at Neenah, spent last Sunday as a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. H. Patterson. He came up more especially to assist his mother, Mrs. Anna J. Durfee, in observing her birthday anniversary.

V. J. Hunter, ticket agent at the Soo depot in this city for the past several years, has been succeeded by Frank Pfiffner, who has held the position of night car checker for some months. Mr. Hunter goes to Grand Rapids to take the position of cashier for the Soo at that place, and the changes are promotions in both instances.

J. T. Simpson, a former conductor on the Central and a resident of this city, committed suicide by taking laudanum at Portland, Oregon, on Monday of last week. He had been running a restaurant for the past four months, and is said to have been financially embarrassed. He was 57 years of age, and after leaving here lived at La Crosse for some time.

During Walter Eddy's recent visit to the west he spent a day or two at Lewiston, Idaho, with his old friends and former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Matthews and the latter's mother, Mrs. J. D. McLean. Mr. Matthews is engaged in the transfer business there and has met with abundant success. Walter says that Lewiston is one of the most prosperous towns he saw on his trip.

Emil Zimmer, foreman in the Soo roundhouse at Abbotstord, accompanied by his wife, spent last Saturday among relatives in this city. They went to Fond du Lac that afternoon and expect to continue on to Cahale, Col., for a visit with his sister, Mrs. Wm. Saxe. On reaching Fond du Lac Mrs. Zimmer discovered that her purse was missing and Emil took the morning train back to Abbotstord where he found the pocketbook in its accustomed place at their home. The journey was resumed a day later than intended.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE
Campaign of Education Against Tuberculosis Met With Good Reception Here Last Week.

The exhibit at the council rooms in this city nearly all of last week under the auspices of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, was visited by a large percentage of the citizens of this city, and the lectures during the afternoons and evenings were attended by good sized and greatly interested audiences. The speakers included Harvey Dee Brown and W. O. Gloyer, the gentlemen who had the exhibit in charge, and also Drs. Walters and Southwick of this city and Rounseville of Milladore.

Dr. Walters was the first local speaker, his address being given Wednesday evening, and he dwelt particularly on the necessity of being vigilant in guarding against and fighting the dread disease, tuberculosis. This disease, he claimed, is spread largely through ignorance, and when the science of health is better known, which must come through education, its spread will be more efficiently checked, if not entirely wiped out.

Dr. Southwick, who spoke on Thursday afternoon, told how tuberculosis can be not only prevented, but entirely cured, and commended the laws in Germany where people who become infected with the germ are compelled to enter a sanatorium for treatment, 75 per cent. of the cases being cured.

Dr. Rounseville spoke on Thursday evening and also gave a very interesting talk on how to cure the disease, which, he said, takes from three to nine years, and even thereafter persons thus affected should be on their guard against a recurrence. The sooner the disease is detected, the sooner it can be entirely checked. The first symptoms, he said, are palpitation of the heart, with rise of temperature in the evening, day chills and night sweats, loss of weight and appetite, and these may or may not be accompanied by a cough. When these symptoms become manifest, it is time to consult a physician and commence a vigorous treatment. The best cure is plenty of sunlight, pure air, good food and rest. Alcohol and patent medicines do not check, but rather assist the disease in its development. The speaker advised strongly against a change of climate, saying that a patient will do better under climatic and other conditions to which he is accustomed. With sanitary surroundings and healthful conditions, there is little danger of contracting tuberculosis.

On Friday evening Mr. Brown delivered an illustrated lecture at the court house lawn, and it was attended by several hundred people. His lecture was illustrated by a large number of slides, which showed the nature of the disease which ravages the human system, and he gave other physical and scientific figures. He also strongly commended plenty of fresh air and sunlight, together with perfect rest for all who may be afflicted with tuberculosis in any of its various forms. Mr. Brown also showed views of the interior and exterior of the River Pines Sanatorium, below this city, as well as the state sanatoriums at Wales and Blue Mound, and strongly emphasized the opinion that tuberculosis or consumption is curable. Many persons there are, he said, who are afflicted to some extent in their younger days without knowing it and who cure themselves and live to a ripe old age.

This campaign of education for the purpose of wiping out the dread white plague, has already begun to do much good. This is especially true in Milwaukee and other large cities where work along these lines has been in progress for the past couple of years. The exhibit was taken to Chippewa Falls, Sunday, where it will be shown all of the present week.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Articles and Items of News that Appeared in the Columns of The Gazette, Quarter of a Century Ago Today.

Mrs. Anna Palicka, of Chicago, recently opened a dry goods store in the Johnson block in this city.

T. C. Rice and family started for Ellendale, D. T., on Thursday morning last to make their future home.

Jas. E. Leary and wife are rejoicing over the arrival of a little boy that put in his appearance last Friday morning.

Clarence A. Sherman, who had been confined to the house by sickness since the first part of July, is again able to be out.

Mrs. J. F. Lueck and children, of New London, are visitors at the home of the lady's parents, Gottlieb Neuman and wife.

Geo. Oster, of Junction City, spent Saturday and Sunday in the city managing the telegraph and express office during the absence of W. S. Johnson.

Geo. Stenger and wife left for Green Bay, last Saturday, to be absent a few days. George will also transact business at Menominee, Mich., before his return.

Miss Alice Kollock will take charge of the school heretofore taught by Miss Agnew at the residence of Mrs. Henry Welty. School will open Monday, Sept. 1st.

Harry Raymond, Jas. Moylan, C. H. Grant, Rob. Rood and A. C. McNeil spent the first of last week at Berlin and other towns in that section, traveling by team.

Ed. H. Taylor, who makes regular trips to this city in the interests of the Standard Paper Co., Milwaukee, will be married next month to Miss Kate Meacher of Portage.

John Kuklinski, a young tailor well known in this city, is now engaged with the firm of Anton Peplinski & Co., and will hereafter do the cutting for the establishment.

Carl Hibbard, of Merrill, and Miss Kate Kline, of this city, were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Merritt Means, in this city, Aug. 9th, Rev. G. W. Horton officiating.

Judge J. R. Kingsbury left the city on Sunday evening last to spend a few weeks at his old home and other points in Maine. He will stop at Boston for a couple of days to visit his daughter, Miss Tina.

E. B. Northrop, who a few years ago was engaged in the newspaper business in this city, but now a real estate agent at St. Paul, was presented with the first addition to his family, last Wednesday.

Matthew Heffron's barn near Custer was struck by lightning last week and burned to the ground, together with a small quantity of hay. Several horses were in the barn at the time, but were taken out uninjured.

A couple of firstclass cisterns or wells have been built by the city at the South Side under the supervision of Frank Wheelock. These cisterns will furnish our steam fire engine with water in case of fire.

Jas. Meehan has rented the M. Clifford house on Brown street, now occupied by John Langdon and family, and will remove his family here about the first of next month to make this city their home. Mr. Langdon will occupy one of the W. J. Clifford residences on Strong's avenue.

At the last meeting of the G. A. R. Post in this city, A. B. Redneid, Knudt Jorgenson, Walter Frazer and E. B. Grant were mustered in as members and applications were received from Helg Halverson, T. F. Fuller and John H. Griffith. Dr. W. W. Goff was installed as surgeon of the Post.

Pick-Up Nines Play Ball.

For some unexplained reason a team intended to represent the Foresters at Grand Rapids failed to come to this city last Sunday, and in consequence there was no game with the local Foresters' nine. A goodly crowd had assembled at the fair grounds and many others would have gone there had they not been informed of the "streak of yellow" displayed by our neighbors down the river.

A couple of nines were organized from among those present and a thoroughly interesting game was played. The aggregation headed by F. A. Krembs defeated Claude Eagleburger's bunch of has-beens by a score of 16 to 8, and did the job with very little effort, apparently. Star plays were made by Friday, a local amateur who may be heard from in later years in professional circles. The teams lined up as follows:

Krembs.....1b.....	Eagleburger
Friday.....2b.....	Neuberker
Quinn.....3b.....	Blood
Wollenschlager.....ss.....	Cashin
Simpson.....rf.....	Klopinski
Moran.....cf.....	Fisher
Martin.....lf.....	Thurman-Helm
R. Berens.....c.....	Gibbons
A. N. Berens.....p.....	Cheasick

LIVED NEARLY A CENTURY

Mrs. Lucinda Gardiner, Who Came to Stevens Point in 1851, Enters Her Long Rest.

Mrs. Lucinda Gardiner, who was probably the oldest person in Portage county, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jane Curtiss, 128 Center street, at 3:15 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon. She had gradually failed for some time, but up to within a couple of weeks before her death was remarkably active, retaining her faculties and enjoyed fairly good health. The end, therefore, came rapidly, she being confined to her bed only about two weeks, and was conscious of everything that was passing until some 48 hours before the final dissolution, when she lapsed into unconsciousness and gradually grew weaker until the final spark faded away.

Born in Canada, Apr. 10, 1813, Mrs. Gardiner was therefore in the 97th year of her age. Her maiden name was Lucinda Raney and she was married in her native country to John Wilson Gardiner, they coming to Stevens Point in 1851, when this city was a mere hamlet, containing barely two score of wooden structures, and it was here that she resided ever since. Mr. Gardiner while engaged in running lumber near Knowlton in 1855, had the misfortune to have one of his limbs taken off by getting it caught in a cable, severing the leg midway between the knee and ankle. He was brought to Stevens Point in a boat as quickly as possible, but died soon after reaching here, the result of the loss of blood and the shock to his system. Mr. Gardiner had been engaged in millwright work, had built mills here and elsewhere, accumulating considerable property, including forty acres of land bounded at present by Main street on the north, Church street on the west, Ellis street on the south and George street on the east, now among the most valuable in the city. The widow and nine children, most of them of tender age, were left, but she with the assistance of these old enough to do their share, were equal to the emergency and all were educated and enjoyed every comfort of life that it was possible to provide in pioneer days. A little daughter died in 1859 and the other members of the family, eight in number, who survive, are Mrs. Ellen McAuley, Mrs. Jane Curtiss of this city, John Gardiner of Spencer, James E. Gardiner and Mrs. Owen Clark of this city, Almon Gardiner of Hancock, Mrs. Gardiner Comstock of Storm Lake, Iowa, and Mrs. H. H. Rose of Reeder, N. D. All were able to attend the funeral except the two latter. She also had 36 grandchildren and 43 great grandchildren, not all of whom are now living, however. Mrs. Gardiner lived a long life, a good life, a useful life, and in her death there should be no sorrow as her life work was well done.

The funeral took place from the Episcopal church at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, Rev. E. M. Thompson officiating, followed by interment in Union cemetery beside those who had gone before. The pallbearers were Robt. Maine, Max Krembs, J. W. Strobe, C. A. Hamacker and Thos. Swan of this city, and A. J. Empey of Milladore. Others present besides the children mentioned above were Mrs. John Gardiner of Spencer, Mrs. Al. Gardiner of Hancock, and Mrs. Lulu Meyers of Green Bay.

Died at Northern Hospital.

Jos. Posdrowski, who was taken to the Northern Hospital, at Oshkosh, last Wednesday, having been declared insane, died at that institution early the following morning, death being due to convulsions, the result of epilepsy, with which he had suffered at intervals for the past three years. These constantly increasing in severity, affected his mind, with the above result. Deceased was about 40 years of age, and previous to moving to this city about four years ago, lived some three miles northeast of here on the Jordan road. His family, consisting of a widow and four children, the oldest 13 and the youngest 3 years of age, live at 1402 Clark street, and are in destitute circumstances. His mother, sister and one brother live near Hatley, and another brother in this city. The widow not having sufficient means to pay the expense of bringing the remains here, and being unable to raise the same, the body was interred in the hospital burying grounds on Saturday.

FIFTEEN DOLLARS A MONTH

Can you save $15 a month? The average man between 20 and 30 years of age ought to be able to do as well as that. Of course there may be good reasons in your case why you cannot save that much, but be sure they are good reasons before you are satisfied with less than that. Saving $15 a month

MEANS $1,800 IN TEN YEARS

and with the interest added to that it would be a small fortune in itself. With that capital you will be in a position to make a great deal more money. Decide NOW to create that capital. THE SHOE MAN

Make an Age Limit.

The Soo company gave notice last week that hereafter they would not hire men over 45 years of age. This rule does not effect men already in the employ of the road, but is for men who are employed in the shops and other positions as well as in the train service, and is said to aim especially at men who make it a point to go about the country working for a short time at one place and then moving on to some other field, just when their services are needed the most.

A. S. Greshie of Elderon called on relatives and friends in the village Friday.

Oscar L. Johnson has opened a tailor shop in the building formerly used as a printing office.

Ole Leklum and A. A. Brekke attended the A. S. of E. meeting at Arnott, Saturday.

Monthly stock fair at Stevens Point next week Thursday, Aug. 19th. You are invited to come.

H. Huntton, the jovial, good-natured real estate agent at Hatley, closed some land deals here Monday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroeder, Aug. 6th a daughter. Mother and child doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simonis were at Callon, Friday, looking over some real estate they intend to purchase.

Isaac Sether and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alvin Sether, spent the forepart of the week with relatives at Scandinavia.

Mrs. Milton Rosholt returned home from Chicago, where she consulted a specialist regarding the condition of her little son.

Wm. Woodworth left for the west Saturday morning, where he expects to exercise his brawn and muscle in the golden wheat fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hoffman took their departure Thursday for Dayton, Ohio, after visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Engstrom.

Mrs. Carl Nottleson went to Scandinavia last Wednesday to visit relatives, and was accompanied home Saturday evening by her brother, Mr. Thorson, and family.

Louise Hanson and family have moved from the east side of town and now occupy rooms upstairs in the postoffice building on the corner of Main street and Grand avenue.

Mrs. I. A. Wells and daughter, Mrs. Ed. Ross, returned to their home Monday at Whitehall, after spending a week with the former's daughter, Mrs. T. J. Warner and family.

Thor Jacobson started for Seattle, Wash., last week Tuesday, to take in the sights at the exposition. He also intends to take up some land in Idaho before returning, if the same is suitable.

Mrs. J. H. Golden, L. Thomy, Misses Melinda Nottleson, Mary Skelly and Rosebud Daley were over to Wausau, Thursday, and witnessed the street parade given by the Gollmar Bros. circus.

Andrew and John Horstad, of Hillsboro, N. D., were the guests of Lawrence Peterson and family the past week. The gentlemen had not been here for 30 years, consequently they noted many changes during that time.

MEHAN.

Robert Slack, who is employed at Plainfield, tarried over Sunday under the parental roof.

Monthly stock fair at Stevens Point next week Thursday, Aug. 19th. You are invited to come.

Earl Hale of New Rome has been spending a few days here visiting with some of his young friends.

Geo. Roe and wife came up from Saratoga and spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives and friends.

Miss Addie Parks has commenced an eight months' term of school in the Morrill district, town of Plover.

Ninety-eight degrees in the shade, terribly dry and no signs of rain were the weather conditions here last Friday, and comparatively so for the past three or four weeks. If the drought continues much longer crops will be ruined here.

Andrew Lutz has sold his threshing outfit to Wolf & Glendinning. They began threshing last week and expect to have an unusual long run. Winter rye is turning out good but oats and spring grain are very light owing to the dry weather.

Our first term of school in the new building began Monday. Although the building is a fine one and strictly up-to-date, it does not take the place of the old white school house to some of the older pupils and parents. Miss Grace Fox of Rudolph has been engaged to teach the entire eight months.

DANCY.

Miss Ella Marchel spent Sunday with friends in Junction City.

Mrs. Henry Morrill of Rhinelander is visiting relatives in this village.

Monthly stock fair at Stevens Point next week Thursday, Aug. 19th. You are invited to come.

The many friends of Mrs. Thos. Altenburg are glad to see her about again after recent illness.

Quite a number from here attended the Gollmar Bros. circus at Stevens Point and Wausau recently.

Miss Olive Wells of Wausau spent a few days the past week in Dancy, a guest of Miss Gladys Altenburg.

Several of our young people enjoyed a pleasant afternoon outing last Sunday, at the White House landing on the Wisconsin river.

Eugene Hein and Harvey Wheaton of Stevens Point spent a couple of days the past week camping on the Wisconsin river near Dancy.

The excavating is completed and rock hauled for the basement of the new school house. E. L. Fisher has the contract for doing the work.

Marion Altenburg and Lola Knoller are two little misses who spent a few days very pleasantly recently at Stevens Point with Miss Pearl Heffron.

Large quantities of blueberries and raspberries are being gathered this year in this locality. Several loads of berry pickers pass through here each day.

Owing to the crop of tame hay being light this year, the wild hay on the marsh near this place is in much demand. Several Knowlton parties are now busily engaged in making hay in this locality.

A special town meeting was held a few days ago to raise the money necessary for constructing the three new iron bridges across the Little Eau Pleine river, recently acted upon. There was but one dissenting vote.

Howard Dessert of Mosinee passed through here a few evenings ago on his motorcycle—and going some. All we need next is one of Wright Bros. flying machines, when the age we are living in ought to be rapid enough to satisfy the most exacting.

Miss Alice Dinwoodie left for Rhinelander last Thursday where she will spend a few days with friends and from there will go to Channing, Mich., to spend some time with her brother, John. She was accompanied as far as Rhinelander by Hazel Clement and Allyn Altenburg.

H. G. Fleith and Dr. H. L. Rosenberg of Wausau, C. E. Guenther of Knowlton, with G. G. Knoller, went out on the drainage district a few days ago to see the big dredge boat working on the main ditch. The visitors expressed themselves as much surprised at the apparent results already accomplished in draining the land. They made the trip in Mr. Fleith's touring car.

G. G. Knoller and J. A. Engel, who recently made a trip down on the Buena Vista marsh, report conditions along the same lines and just as enthusiastic of the good work accomplished and bumper crops as did the editor of The Gazette in his write-up. All that is needed is perseverance and coin to bring about the same results in the Dancy drainage district, and the writer feels confident that both essentials will be on hand when the proper time comes. The gentlemen reported having been most hospitably entertained by W. B. Coddington while down looking the work over.

RUDOLPH.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Akey visited at Biron recently.

Miss Louise Sharkey of Grand Rapids spent Sunday with her parents here.

Harry Sparks returned home Sunday after a two weeks visit at Grand Rapids.

Pat Redmond sold a nice driving horse to the Reiland Packing Co. of Grand Rapids.

Miss Grace Fox went to Meehan to begin the fall term of school at that place, Monday last.

Monthly stock fair at Stevens Point next week Thursday, Aug. 19th. You are invited to come.

Remember the harvest dance at Marceau's hall, Thursday evening, Aug. 12th. All are invited.

Mr. Anderson of Junction City has been engaged to teach the fall term of school in district No. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson departed for their home in Milwaukee, Monday last, after an extended visit with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jacobson. Mrs. Jacobson accompanied them home and will spend the next few weeks in the Cream City.

PLOVER.

Monthly stock fair at Stevens Point next week Thursday, Aug. 19th. You are invited to come.

The W. R. C. of Plover entertained Plover Post and the ladies of Stevens Point Corps at dinner, Saturday, Aug. 7th. At this time the president, Mrs. Hughes, was presented with an emblem pin. The afternoon was devoted to the regular W. R. C. meeting. Cream and cake were served at 5 o'clock, the Stevens Point ladies returning home on the evening train.

The Plover G. A. R. Post and W. R. C. were entertained by the Corps president, Mrs. Eliza Hughes, at the home of Chas. Uphagrove, on Thursday, Aug. 5th. An elaborate dinner was served at which were present Mr. and Mrs. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. J. Beach, Mr. and Mrs. W. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. R. Washburn, Mr. and Mrs. W. White, Mr. and Mrs. A. Crofoot, S. Whittaker and Henry Johnson, and Mesdames S. Carley, J. Strong, H. Moore, F. McGown, L. Dakins, L. Beach, J. Gillman, C. Smith, I. Altenburg, C. Entzminger, C. Bremmer, M. Hurlbut, P. C. Stelter, M. Means and M. Betts. Refreshments were served at 5 o'clock, after which they departed for their respective homes, having spent a very pleasant day and feeling they had been royally entertained.

Pick-Up Nines Pl.

For some unexplained re, intended to represent the Grand Rapids failed to come to this city last Sunday, and in consequence there was no game with the local Forsters' nine. A goodly crowd had assembled at the fair grounds and many others would have gone there had they not been informed of the "streak of yellow" displayed by our neighbors down the river.

A couple of nines were organized from among those present and a thoroughly interesting game was played. The aggregation headed by F. A. Krembs defeated Claude Eagleburger's bunch of has-beens by a score of 16 to 8, and did the job with very little effort, apparently. Star plays were made by Friday, a local amateur who may be heard from in later years in professional circles. The teams lined up as follows:

Christman spent Sunday and Monday visiting with friends at Marinette, Wis., and Menominee, Mich., accompanying his wife and little daughter, who will visit there for several days, after which they will spend some time at Oshkosh and Grand Rapids, their two older daughters, Gertrude and Erma, being in the latter city.
The law and order league of Chicago has commenced a crusade against "mashers," and the women of the city have been appealed to to assist in the warfare. One of the first to be arrested was Jas. Reddington, who several years ago made frequent visits to Stevens Point as a salesman for a wholesale liquor house, but he insisted that the complainant was mistaken.
J. W. Dunegan returned Tuesday morning from Montreal, Canada, where he went as a delegate from Wisconsin to the international convention Catholic Order of Foresters. Mrs. Dunegan remained over for a day at Waukesha and arrived here last evening. Visits were made to Quebec and St. Anne de Baupre, besides several other places of interest in the Canadian country.

The Cellar Hole and the Sewer Hole

By Herbert Kaufman.

A coal cart stopped before an office building in Washington and the driver dismounted, removed the cover from a manhole, ran out his chute, and proceeded to empty the load. An old negro strode over and stood watching him. Suddenly the black man glanced down and immediately burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter, which continued for several minutes. The cart driver looked at him in amazement. "Say, Uncle, he said, 'I don't always laugh when you see coal come into a cellar.' The negro sputtered around for a few moments and then holding his hands to his aching sides managed to say, "No, son, but I jest bust when I see it goin' down a sewer."

The advertiser who displays lack of judgment in selecting the newspaper to carry his advertisement confuses the advertiser and the reader.

All the money that is put into newspapers isn't taken out again by any means. The fact that all papers possess a certain physical likeness doesn't by any means identify a similarity in character, and it's character in a newspaper that brings returns. The advertiser who conducts his small ad sewer finds a different class of readers than the publisher who respects his self enough to respect his readers.

What goes into a newspaper largely determines the class of homes into which the newspaper goes. An irresponsible, scandal-mongering, muck-raking sheet is logically not supported by the buying classes of people. It may be perused by thousands of readers, but such readers are seldom purchasers of advertised goods.

It's the clean-cut, steady, normal-minded citizens who form the bone and sinew and muscle of the community. It's the sane, self-respecting, dependable newspaper that enters their homes and it's the home sale that indicates the strength of an advertising medium.

No clean-minded father of a family wishes to have his wife and children brought in contact with the most maudlin and banal phases of life. He defends them from the sensational editor and the unpleasant advertiser. He subscribes to a newspaper which he does not fear to leave about the house.

Therefore, the respectable newspaper can always be counted upon to produce more sales than one which may even own a larger circulation but whose distribution is in ten editions among unprofitable citizens.

You can no more expect to sell goods to people who haven't money than you can hope to pluck oysters from bushes.

It isn't the number of readers reached but the number of readers whose purses can be reached that constitutes the value of circulation. It's one thing to arouse their attention, but it's a far different thing to get their money. The mind may be willing, but the pocketbook is weak.

If you had the choice of a thousand acres of desert land or a hundred acres of oasis, you'd select the fertile spot, realizing that the larger tract had less value because it would be less productive.

Just so the advertiser who really understands how he is spending his money does not measure by bulk alone. He counts productivity first. He takes care that he is not putting his money into a sewer.

Served as coffee, the new coffee substitute known to grocers everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee, will trick even a coffee expert. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Pure healthful toasted grains, malt, nuts, etc., have been so cleverly blended as to give a wonderfully satisfying coffee taste and flavor. And it is "made in a minute," too. No tedious 20 to 30 minutes boiling.

CLAY'S FIRST SPEECH.

It Began In Confusion, but Ended In a Triumph.

Henry Clay as a young man was extremely bashful, although he possessed uncommon brightness of intellect and fascinating address, without effort making the little he knew pass for much more. In the early part of his career he settled in Lexington, Va., where he found the society most congenial, though the clients seemed somewhat reluctant to the young lawyer. He joined a debating society at length, but for several meetings he remained a silent listener.

One evening after a lengthy debate the subject was being put to a vote when Clay was heard to observe softly to a friend that the matter in question was by no means exhausted. He was at once asked to speak and after some hesitation rose to his feet. Finding himself thus unexpectedly confronted by an audience, he was covered with confusion and began, as he had frequently done, in imaginary appeals to the court, "Gentlemen of the jury."

A titter that ran through the audience only served to heighten his embarrassment, and the obnoxious phrase fell from his lips again. Then he gathered himself together and launched into a peroration so brilliantly lucid and impassioned that it carried the house by storm and laid the cornerstone to his future greatness, his first case coming to him as a result of this speech, which some consider the finest he ever made.

SAM HOUSTON'S MOTHER.

For the Children's Sake She Faced the Perils of the Wilderness.

The mother of Sam Houston was another woman who for the sake of her children hazarded the dangers of the wilderness journey without the protection of a man's strong arm. Houston's friend and biographer, C. Edwards Lester portrayed her as "an extraordinary woman, distinguished by an impressive and dignified countenance and gifted with intellectual and moral qualities which elevated her in a still more striking manner above most of her sex."

The death of her husband left Mrs. Houston in poor circumstances and with a growing family of six sons and three daughters. Knowing that many of her neighbors who had gone west had prospered, she determined to follow their example in order that her children might get a good start in life. sold her Virginia farm and journeyed to Tennessee, ending her migration only when within eight miles of the boundary between the settlements of the whites and the wigwams of the Cherokees.

There she erected a rude cabin with the help of her oldest boys, and there she labored diligently to bring up her children to be useful men and women. It was for them that she toiled and prayed and denied herself, personifying in her devotion another trait of the mothers of the early west.—Smith's Magazine.

The Greater Loss.

Tragedies innumerable culminate in the emergency hospital.

"What has happened to me?" asked the patient when he had recovered from the effects of the ether.

"You were in a trolley car accident," said the nurse, "and it has been found necessary to amputate your right hand." He sank back on the pillow, sobbing aloud. "Cheer up," said the nurse, patting him on the head; "you'll soon learn to get along all right with your left hand."

"Oh, it wasn't the loss of the hand itself that I was thinking of," sighed the victim. "But on the forefinger was a string that my wife tied around it to remind me to get something for her this morning, and now I'll never be able to remember what it was."—Argonaut.

Argentina.

The land of Argentina is fertile and under proper conditions would support an immense population and could own practically all of South America. It is one of the three large countries of the earth that could support a large population if absolutely cut off from all other countries. Foreigners fall into the sluggish habits of the Spanish there. The Grain Exchange opens at 4 p. m. and closes at 5. Breakfast is generally about 11 a. m., dinner 7 to 8, and the theaters begin at 10. It is not a country for the vigorous, energetic, money making immigrant. People live there to enjoy life and not to accumulate dollars.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Garden and the Hen.

Did you ever work for ten hours and make a beautiful garden about the size of a large pocket handkerchief? And then after it was all planted and updid you ever find a hen that looked like a cross between a greyhound and a buzz saw right in the middle of it with the air full of young lettuce and radishes? Did you then remember that the hen was made for some useful purpose and that innocent children yield to its hearing distance? Butler (Ga.) Democrat.

THE USEFUL FIG.

A Colored Woman's Story of a Trade and Its Results.

A colored woman was being examined at a conference at Tuskegee. "Do the people in your community own homes?" came the query from Mr. Booker Washington.

"I think they's fixin' to own 'em, sah."

"But do they own them?"

"A heap of times you can't jest tell, sah. But they's holdin' 'em down."

"Do you own your home?"

"Yes, sah, I do," proudly. "And I can tell you jest how I got it. I swapped a puppy dog for it."

"Tell us about it."

"Well, it was this way. When I started I didn't have anything at all but jest a little yaller puppy dog."

"I took the dog over to my brother-in-law's. He had eight little bits of pigs, oh, jest so little, and I swapped the puppy with him for one of the pigs. It was sech a little pig that it didn't look like it would live, but I nursed it good, and I prayed to the Lord to make that little pig come for 'ard to do me good, and the pig lived and grew."

"The first year I turned her out, and when she came back in the fall she brought me seven little pigs with her. That was my start. I've never had to buy any meat since. This winter I've killed three hogs, and I've got another at home now ready to kill. I've got forty acres of land now, all paid for, and a house, and it all come from that one little puppy."

"Do you hear that," exclaimed Mr. Washington, "you men? Some of you'd better go back home and swap your dogs for pigs!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE GREAT PYRAMID.

It Illustrates the Wonderful Ability of the Ancient Egyptians.

The cost of the labor and material necessary to duplicate the great pyramid of Gizeh at the present time would amount to considerably more than $50,000,000, according to a paper read before the Society of Engineers in New York city by E. S. Wheeler, says the American Architect. The cost of the material alone is estimated at $18,000,000.

This structure, one of the wonders of the world, is founded on solid rock at a depth of about 120 feet below the surface level and rises to a height of 454 feet. Its base covers an area of almost fifteen acres.

Mr. Wheeler's scheme for the reproduction of this pyramid contemplates first the setting of a base of concrete. This would represent about 2,000,000 cubic yards of material and would cost at least $10,000,000. The estimate for the superstructure is about $38,000,000, and it would contain 3,313,000 cubic yards of backing stone and 140,000 cubic yards of facing stone. Mr. Wheeler's estimate of labor is 24,000,000 days.

These figures are cited to show the great engineering skill of the Egyptians and the fact that no task in construction appeared to be too large for a people whose extant monuments showed their patience and ability to overcome obstacles that would daunt even the modern engineer.

Curious Epitaphs.

Old New England graveyards are not the only ones which contain curious epitaphs. The old time dweller of Maine who "died of a falling tree," as his headstone asserts, had a fellow in misfortune in faroff Austria, as is shown by W. A. Baillie-Grohman's "The Tyrol and the Tyrolese."

A wooden slab, painted with the representation of a prostrate tree under which lies a man in spread eagle attitude, bears testimony to the violent death of "Johann Lemberger, aged fifty-two and three-quarters years. This upright and virtuous youth was squashed by a falling tree."

The record of Michael Gerstner is even more succinct and convincing. He "climbed up, fell down and was dead."

Horse Sense.

A horse is so constructed by nature that he has no desire to do anything which will injure his health. He walks around whatever is not good for him and without a struggle. But man is so constructed that whatever is not good for him he wants to do. He eats too much, and he eats too fast. He drinks while eating, and there is nothing proper that he does without an effort. Why this distinction in favor of a horse? It may be said that a horse has only instinct, while a man has reason, which he should use. It is a pity that man was not given more instinct and less reason.—Acheson Globe.

First Aid.

"If you were called upon to deal with a hysterical person," asked the examiner at the emergency class, "what would you do?"

"I'd amputate his funny bone," said the student with a turn for surgery and humor.—Youth's Companion.

The Invincible Britons.

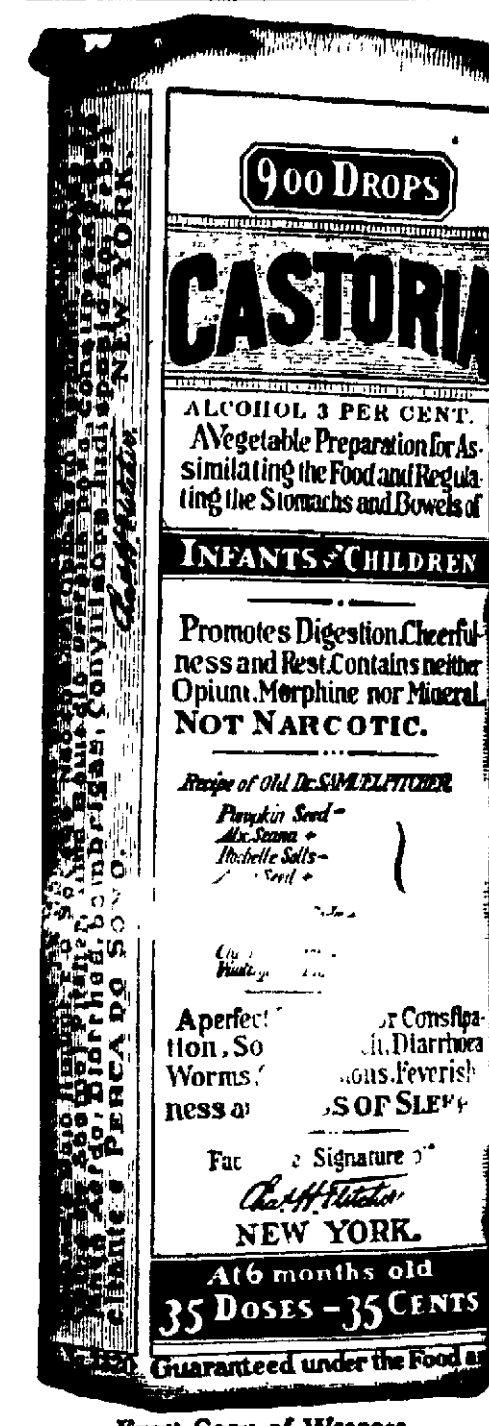

Smith—The British, I believe, rarely make mention of our Revolution. Jones—No, but I understand they occasionally refer to it as a conflict in which some British colonists defeated a force of Hessians.—London Tatler.

Making Good.

"Is he making good in his new line of work?"

"Yes, indeed. He is already finding fault with the way his boss carries on the business."—Detroit Free Press.

The most essential feature of a man is his improbability.—Flaks.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!" And for 20 years Dr. Shoen's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere.

Thousands upon thousands have been cured of other unwarranted and uncertain medical treatments by Dr. Sloop's Restorative. The nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly
Dr. Sloop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money for whatever. They know that when health fails to Sloop will himself—when they need the drug—and for that best of all 30 day treatment is freely granted.

This will save delay and disappointment.
All druggists sell Dr. Shoep's Restorative and Dr. Shoep's Rheumatic Bandy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—for I have appointed an honest and responsible drug-giver in almost every community to issue my "no medicine to the sick, tell me also how you need." The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me in the best of your own judgment. My advice, and the book below are free—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands by my private prescription or personal advice. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now, while you have it fresh in

Tuesday morning as Mrs. Thomas Label and daughter were returning from the cheese factory, her horse became frightened by the whistle on the factory and losing control of the horse he ran down the street and turned the corner at Empey's store and started across the track towards Berdan's and Lynch's blacksmith shop.

As the horse turned the corner Mrs. Label and daughter were thrown. The lady fell upon a large hemlock bolt and was hurt quite seriously. She was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sodema, where a doctor was summoned. The daughter was uninjured.

Will Gebert tried to stop the horse but he turned off and ran up against a crossing sign board, breaking loose from the buggy and partly demolishing the rig.

Monday morning a suspicious character entered town, leaning on a crutch with a bandaged toe and inquired for a doctor. He was directed to Dr. Rounseville's office over Brandie's tailor shop, and as it happened Dr. was out to breakfast and left the door open for callers. This fellow went up stairs and not finding anyone in, picked up the first thing he came across, and this happened to be a gold fountain pen.

The loss was not discovered until the fellow had left town. Dr. Rounseville called up Junction City by phone and told them to be on the lookout. In a short time Fred Culver phoned back and said that he had caught him and that he had sold the pen in town. He was brought back on No. 11 and taken before Justice of the Peace Gebert and sentenced to 30 days at the county jail.

Many from here spent Sunday at Lake Emily and witnessed two poor ball games. The ride around the lake in Nelson's launch was enjoyed by all.

"NIGGER IN THE FENCE"

President of the School Board Declares

There is One in the Matter of Laying Sanitary Sewers.

The Board of Education met in monthly meeting, Monday evening, with all members present except E. A. Krembs. Bills were read and allowed as follows:

C. Krembs & Bro., supplies, $ 28 35
Creek Lumber Co., supplies, 1 68
Gross & Jacobs, supplies, 7 00
Dixon & Hanson, supplies, 17 00
Paragon Oil Co., oil, 15 00
Telephone Co., rental, 13 00
Reto Bros & Co., rep. clocks, 3 00
Lighting Co., power and gas, 15 40
Geo. DeLong, drayage, 2 00
G. W. Maine, repairs, 75
A. Erdman, wood, 2 00
Reading & Neumann, drayage, 2 44
Gross & Jacobs, coal, 1 873 63

Andrew Pascavis, 703 Brawley street, applied for the position of janitor, which was referred to the proper committee.

A communication from Supt. Cary acknowledging the receipt of financial statement and other statistics relative to the high school and manual training department, was read. The clerk read a bid from The Gazette and Journal offering to do the official publishing of the board, in accordance with a recent law passed by the legislature, for the sum of 60 cents per folio, the same to be published in both papers. The matter was referred to the president and clerk with power to act.

A surety bond for the treasurer in the sum of $20,000 was referred to the finance committee, who later reported it in proper form. Several changes in the courses of study in the various departments were recommended and were referred to the committee on text books with power to act.

Relative to the proposed sewers to connect the Third and Fourth ward schools, Pres. Young said that the committee had appeared before the council asking for the extensions, but they had been turned down and it looked as though there was a "nigger in the fence" somewhere; that the city engineer had evidently reported to the council what he was told to report by some higher in authority. Mr. Young said that he had been informed on reliable authority that the connection can be made with the sewer on N. Second street with no change in the present sewer, but it looks as though there would be nothing done under the present administration. Mr. Bruce declared that it looked as though one man was holding back the work for political gain. Mr. Blood said that something must be done about the heating plant in the Fourth ward, as the furnaces now there are burned out and must be replaced by some new system. This matter was brought up later and the clerk was authorized to enter into negotiations with Lewis & Kitchen, of Chicago, and secure plans for heating the building with steam, and the committee on supplies was authorized to hire an engineer, if necessary, to ascertain the condition of the N. Second street sewer.

A fire extinguisher representative addressed the board relative to supplying the schools at $30 per dozen, and Mr. Clements stated that the state fire inspector recommended that the schools be provided with extinguishers. He wanted 18 purchased, but Mr. Bruce said that he thought it would be well to economize, and a letter was read from C. Krembs & Bro. offering to furnish the Manville fire extinguisher at $24 per dozen. The matter was referred to the committee on supplies, to report.

T. H. Hanna appeared before the board on behalf of St. Peter's congregation, saying that he had been asked to state the fact that with the prospective attendance in the school they will be obliged to secure one or more teachers, which they are unable to afford. Fully 80 children, or two grades, must be let out and they would be willing to rent one room in the parochial school to the board where these children could be taught. This matter was referred to the teachers' committee and Supt. Davis.

The president announced the following standing committees for the ensuing year:

Finance—M. E. Bruce, Joseph Worzalla, C. W. Simonson.
Repairs—F. J. Blood, E. A. Krembs, F. E. Boyer, C. W. Simonson, M. E. Bruce, J. K. Land, J. N. Davis.

Teachers—J. T. Clements, E. M. Rogers, F. E. Boyer, F. B. Gano, W. F. Cartmill.

Insurance—E. A. Krembs, J. K. Land, Joseph Worzalla.

High School and Text Books—J. N. Davis, J. T. Clements, W. S. Young.

Mr. Clements stated that Miss Mary Kalisky, who had been engaged as a teacher, will be unable to take her position on account of illness, and the matter of filling the vacancy was referred to the committee on teachers with power to act, as was also the matter of securing a deafmute teacher, who will receive a salary of $85 per month.

The president spoke of making driveways in the different school yards, which can be built from cinders taken from the furnaces, and this was referred to the committee on supplies.

Bids for building cement walks were received as follows: Roy & Harwood, 84 cents per foot in the Third ward and 8 cents per ft. in the Fourth ward and at the High school; J. W. Moxon, $475 for 5,000 square ft., or 94 cents per ft. The contract was let to Roy & Harwood, they to follow specifications that will be furnished.

Bids for painting the exterior of the Third ward building, two coats, were read as follows: C. F. Berndt, $60; J. F. Andrews, $57; J. W. Strope, $59; V. S. Prais, $50. The contract was let to the latter.

The school year will begin Monday, Aug. 30th, and all schools will be dismissed on Thursday afternoon and all day Friday during the fair. The committee on supplies was given power to purchase necessary supplies for the domestic science and manual training departments, and the meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the president.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Malone of Wausau, accompanied by their children and Miss Lillian LaMountain, are spending two weeks in the Malone cottage. Mr. Malone is chief of police in Marathon county's metropolis, and apparently will enjoy a respite of rest and recreation in this ideal vicinity during his short vacation.

A sad accident occurred here Saturday, which resulted in the death of one of our respected farmers, Henry Radanz. Mr. Radanz was on his way to the creamery with milk when his horse, through some unknown cause, became frightened and started to run, colliding with Mr. Wingelski's rig and throwing Mr. Radanz to the ground, striking his head and shoulder on the solid earth. He was picked up and cared for by kind friends who did everything possible. Dr. Daniels of Mosinee was called and with the utmost dispatch responded. Mr. Radanz never regained consciousness, having sustained concussion of the brain. He lived just thirty-six hours after the accident. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the house, with interment in the Knowlton cemetery. He is survived by his wife, one son and a daughter. He was sixty-eight years old but still an active, hardworking man and highly respected by all who knew him.

Merrill Advocate Quits.

The Advocate, a paper started by the late Myron H. McCord, at Merrill, in the early 70's, has suspended publication, and it is announced that the material will be sold to satisfy creditors on the 18th inst. For years the Advocate was a leading publication, both under the direction of Mr. McCord and C. N. Johnson, now of the Daily Herald, and for the past five years it has been edited by A. C. Thompson. The Gazette regrets to lose the Advocate from its list of exchanges.

MUCH TIMBER LEFT

Prodigal Use of That Product Is Still Going On.

Original Forests of Country, Which in Quantity and Variety Exceeded Those of Any Other Region on Globe Being Depleted.

Washington.—The annual report of the forestry bureau as to the timber supply of the United States indicates that a prodigal use of that product is still going on, despite the publicity given and the widespread interest in national conservation of all resources. It is pointed out that the annual consumption of timber in the United States is still ten times that of France, per capita, and nearly eight times that of Germany. Some of the striking features of the report are as follows.

The original forests of the United States, which in the quantity and variety of their timber exceeded the forests of any other region of similar size on the globe, have been reduced by cutting, clearing and fire from an acreage of 850,000,000 to one of not more than 550,000,000, with a total stand of some 2,500,000,000,000 board feet.

Most of our forests are private property. About one-fifth of the standing timber in the country is held by the federal government in national parks and on the unreserved public domain, and by the states in state reserves or other state lands. These public forests contain more than 100,000,000 acres of saw timber.

The private forests are of two distinct classes, (1) farmers' woodlots and (2) large holdings, either individual or corporate. The woodlots are chiefly scattered and detached remnants of the original forests. They are mainly in the eastern half of the United States and cover some 200,000,000 acres, with a stand of perhaps 300,000,000,000 board feet of saw timber and 1,500,000,000 cords of wood. Aside from their protective and ornamental value, they furnish much firewood, many posts, poles and crossties and some lumber and cooperage stock. The large private holdings contain about 1,700,000,000,000 feet. These holdings generally include the best timber in the regions in which they occur. They are the principal sources of the timber which is used to-day, and upon the manner in which they are managed depends in a large degree the timber supply of the future.

The value of the forest products of the United States in 1907, the last year for which detailed data are available, was approximately $1,280,000,000.

The fact that timber has been cheap and abundant has made us careless of its production and reckless of its use. We are cutting our forests three times as fast as they are growing. We take 250 cubic feet of wood per capita annually from our forests, while Germany uses only 37 cubic feet and France but 25. On the other hand, Germany makes her state forests produce an average of 48 cubic feet of wood per acre.

The necessity for more farm land may eventually reduce our total forest area to 100,000,000 acres less than it is at present. It is entirely possible, however, to produce on 450,000,000 acres as much wood as a population much greater than we have now will really need if all the forest land is brought to its highest producing capacity and if the product is economically and completely utilized.

SWEDISH MONARCH'S EFFORTS AS A PEACEMAKER RESULT IN FAILURE.

PRINTERS QUIT THEIR WORK

Union Will Not Permit Teamsters Without Labor Badges to Work—Planned to Stop Street Cars Monday.

Stockholm.—Despite the efforts of King Gustave the strike situation in Sweden grew worse Monday when the printers quit their work.

The national labor union issued a proclamation that beginning Monday every dray or wagon whose driver is not wearing a union permit badge will be stopped by strikers. No exception, it was stated, will be made for owners driving their own wagons.

The union further threatened to frustrate the attempt of the Stockholm street car company to start its cars on the important lines with the aid of the company's officials and strike-breakers. More than 1,000 telephone and telegraph employes will strike Wednesday.

King Gustave intervened Sunday in an endeavor to secure a compromise. His majesty sent a message to the parties at conflict exhorting them to come to an agreement at the earliest moment possible and advising arbitration of the disputed questions.

It was after King Gustave's message had been read and approved at a cabinet meeting Saturday that his majesty summoned to the palace the two leaders of the warring factions, Director Van Sydow of the employers, and Senator Lindquist, president of the Federation of Trades Unions, for a conference.

The result of this conference has not yet transpired, but apparently his majesty's efforts for a peaceful solution of the trouble was without result.

More than 300,000 persons are now affected by the strike, which has paralyzed the country.

The Employers' association is paying out $40,000 daily to support its weaker members. The cash in the association's treasury is sufficient to keep up this support for three weeks, and when the funds in the treasury are exhausted the association has a reserve fund of $4,500,000 which may be used. The strikers daily are receiving large contributions from Denmark, Norway, Finland, Germany, Roumania and Bulgaria.

A prominent journalist, Gustafson, has been summoned to court by the public prosecutor, charged with a crime against the penal code, that of exhorting the employes of the state railway to strike.

IS DEATH'S PRISONER NOW

Son of Man Who Wrote "America" Lives Only Three Days After Being Pardoned.

Des Moines, Ia.—Samuel Francis Smith, embezzler, former mayor of Davenport and son of the man who wrote "America," who died Sunday in a hospital at Toronto, Canada, where he was taken from a train bearing him to Newton Center, Mass., to join his wife and daughter after five years' separation, was released, last Thursday, from the state reformatory at Anamosa on orders from Gov. Carroll. His sentence was suspended because of his old age. Convicted of embezzling trust funds in Davenport five years ago, he had served five years.

Six years ago Samuel Francis Smith was one of the most highly respected citizens of Iowa. A former mayor of Davenport, a brilliant lawyer, a banker, a pillar in church work, he had many friends and no enemies. Examination of his books showed that he was a defaulter to the extent of $100,000 of trust funds entrusted to him.

WOMAN BRUTALLY SLAIN

Italians Suspected of Killing Unidentified Female Whose Body Is Found Near Detroit.

Detroit, Mich.—The badly mutilated body of a woman about 35 years of age was found in a clump of underbrush in Hamtrack, this county, Sunday. The condition of the body indicates that the woman was assaulted and killed.

The land on which the body was found is owned by an Italian named Serrira Marke, who of late has entertained, it is said, many of his countrymen who seemed to be itinerant peddlers or laborers. While no suspicion attaches to Marke, the officers are investigating the reports that women of the neighborhood have been annoyed by some of Marke's guests during the last week or two.

Mrs. A. J. Button, wife of a resident of the vicinity, says she was accosted near where the body was found, a week ago, by a man who from appearance she thought was an Italian.

SAVES LIFE TO WIN BRIDE

Young Man, Resident of Washington, Proves Champion Lightweight Rescuer and a Speedy Love Maker.

Washington.—Joseph Booker, 23 years old, is the champion lightweight life-saver and the speediest love maker in this community. Joseph met Miss Blanche Wilson of Cumberland, Md., a short time ago. Miss Wilson is a welterweight and has the best of Joseph by 28 pounds.

Joseph proposed a boat ride on the Chesapeake & Ohio canal, and had pulled the boat as far as Glen Echo when it capsized in 18 feet of water.

When Joseph came to the surface Miss Wilson was a dozen feet from him, vainly trying to reach the overturned boat. A heroic effort negotiated the distance just as Miss Wilson had sunk for the second time. Joseph grabbed her and pulled for the shore.

The bedraggled young man and woman were taken to the home of Manager Shaw of Glen Echo park. Dry clothes were given them, and while their own were drying they took a stroll. En route Joseph proposed marriage and was accepted.

DUMB THROUGH STAGE FRIGHT

Young Singer Breaks Down in Middle of Song Through Some Disease as Yet Unknown.

New Bedford, Mass.—Whether Charles J. B. Paquette, a young singer who broke down while singing at the Pastime theater in Boston, was made dumb through stage fright or some disease is a question upon which two medical experts cannot agree.

Paquette, who is 23 years old, has not been able to utter a word since he started to sing his second song on his first appearance as a professional in the Boston amusement house.

Dr. Alphonse Normandin of this city has twice examined the young man and says that he can find nothing at all wrong with his vocal cords and believes the patient could speak if he would.

A Fall River specialist, after examining Paquette, declares he was stricken dumb from some mysterious cause, which as yet he has been unable to fathom. Paquette scrawled on a piece of paper: "I am dumb!" when a theatrical manager demanded what he meant by rushing from the stage.

PREFERS TRUTH TO HUSBAND.

Woman Tells Governor of Kentucky Her Testimony Caused Him to Leave Her.

Frankfort, Ky.—Mrs. Emma Daly of Covington is one woman in this world who would rather take a chance on losing her husband than to swear to a lie. She has written to Gov. Willson that she was a witness in the Uhly case in Kenton county, and that her husband told her that if she testified in a certain way that he would leave her.

Mrs. Uhly was a sister of her husband, Charles Daly, but in a letter to Gov. Willson Mrs. Daly says that she swore opposite to the way her husband wanted her to, although he threatened to leave her if she swore the way she did.

She tells the governor that her husband kept his promise, and has gone, but she says she told the truth, and now she wants her husband back and wants the governor to help her find him.

The letter is the biggest puzzle that Gov. Willson has received since he came into office.

China's Export of Peanuts.

China has exported over eleven million pounds of peanuts in one year, while the domestic trade in peanuts that came under the cognizance of the customs of the open ports amounted to $9,529,476 pounds.

FRATERNITY BOYS DUCK GIRLS

Get Even with Sorority High School Members for Not Being Invited to Slumber Party.

Logansport, Ind.—Sorority high school girls to the number of an even dozen, in attendance on a slumber party at the residence of Miss Beulah Vernon, No. 814 High street, ran screaming from the house, attired only in night robes, shortly after midnight. They were drenched to the skin with water, and the flimsy night robes clung to them like bathing suits. They were hysterical with excitement, and neighbors were aroused by their excited clamoring.

Bad boys, members of a high school fraternity, had caused the general exodus. They had been barred from the party, and some of them on passing the Vernon home late at night discovered that the parlor windows were open.

The girls were asleep on the floor, in chairs and on couches in the parlor, and the boys attached a hose to the hydrant in the front yard and directed the nozzle at one of the open windows. They then turned on the water and the stream entered the house, splattered against the wall on the opposite side of the room and then showered down on the sleeping forms. The water drenched the girls, and, half awake, they ran and stumbled from the room.

The boys ran, but if they are found out they will be turned over to their mothers for a spanking.

Grief of a Monkey.
Chicago.—Grief over the death of Dr. Monroe S. Leach, a few days ago, caused the suicide of the physician's pet monkey, which refused to touch food after its master died.

When Dr. Leach was taken ill the monkey took up its post at the sick bed and refused to leave. On the day the physician died, it is declared by members of the family, the animal whimpered like a child. At the funeral the monkey was permitted to look for the last time on the face of its dead master. With shrill, almost human cries, it clung to the casket and it was necessary to pull it away.

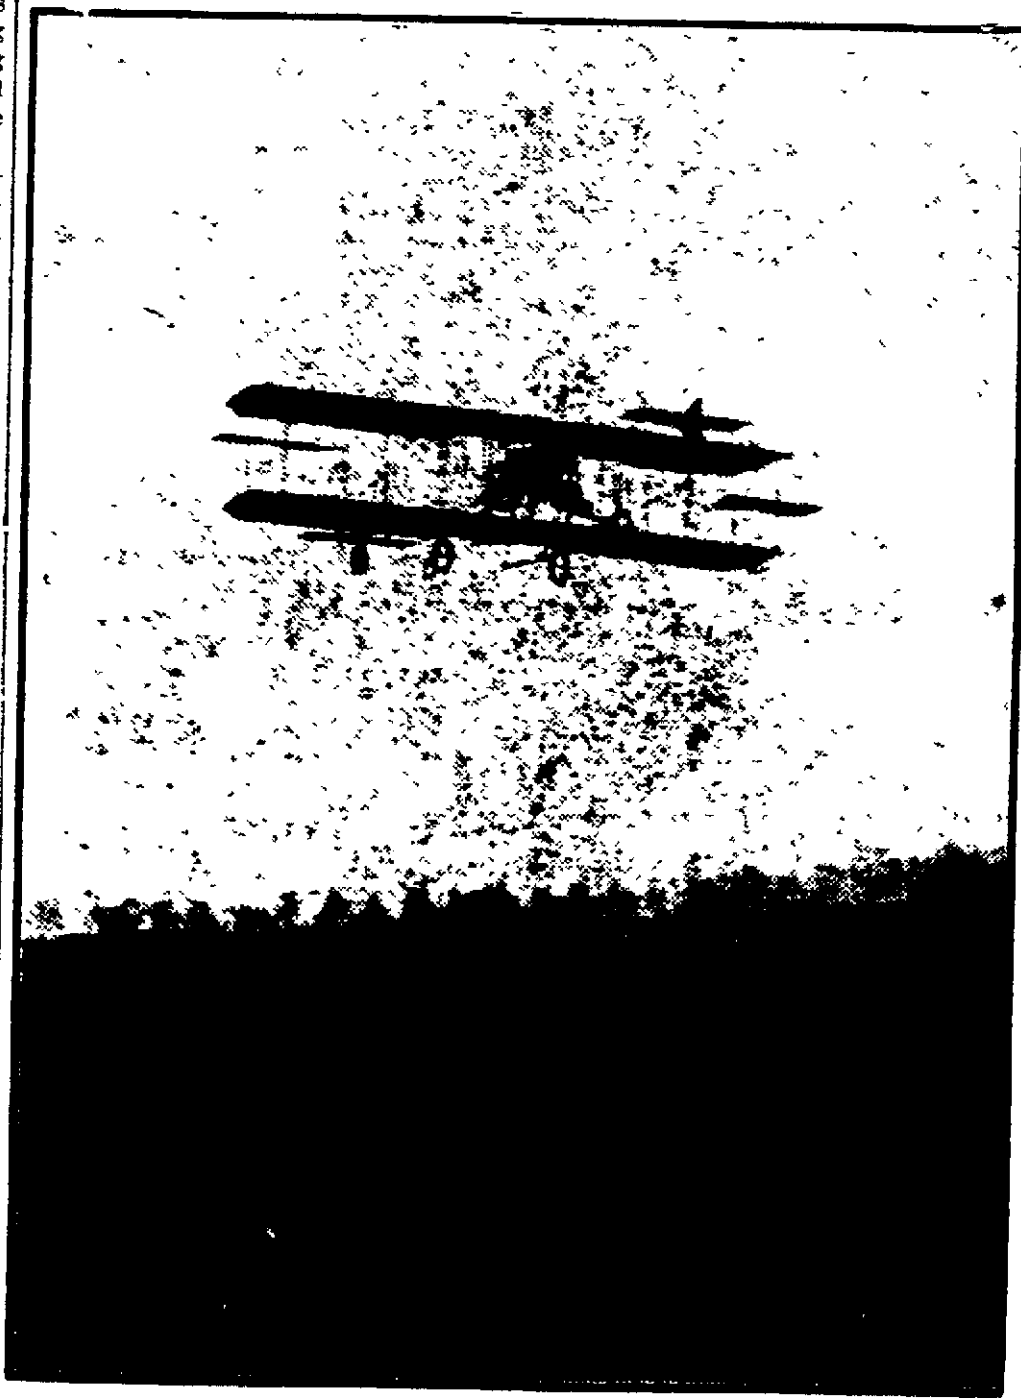

Scrambled Eggs by Mail.
Washington.—Eggs as an article of mail transportation are not popular with the United States postal authorities.

It developed the other day that some one in Canada had mailed three dozen eggs to an addressee in Brattleboro, Vt., and when Postmaster H. E. Taylor opened a mailbag he found it dripping with eggs freshly scrambled. Addresses were obliterated from letters in many instances and they had to be sent to the dead letter office.

Such a situation could not arise from mail originating in the United States, as such things as eggs are not mailable in this country.

Farms to Fenian Foes.
Halifax, N. S.—In recognition of their services in 1866, when Canada was threatened with an invasion by the Fenians, the Canadian government is about to award to the 175 living members of the impromptu "army" of this city grants of 160 acres of land each. The grants are from the public lands of the Canadian northwest.

CURTISS AEROPLANE IN FLIGHT

From stereograph, copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

The above is a photograph of Glenn H. Curtiss, the aeroplaneist, taken during his recent flight in which he won the Scientific American Trophy by flying 28 miles in 52 minutes over Hempstead Plain, Mineola, Long Island, N. Y. Mr. Curtiss ranks among the world's greatest aviators and will take part in the foreign aerial competition at Rheims, France.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

CALLS ATTENTION TO COUNTRY

Epifanio Portela, envoy extraordinary from Argentina, has risen to remark that Americans could get more trade with his country if they only had ships sailing from New York or some other central point to Buenos Ayres. As it is now, about the only way that American goods can be shipped to Argentina is by way of Europe. But four American ships visited Buenos Ayres in 1908. Despite this handicap, the envoy says, the residents of his land took nearly $50,000,000 of American goods last year. The total annual trade is $600,000,000.

"The people of our country would like to trade with America," says Portela, "but as it is, the countries of Europe can undersell yours on everything except agricultural machinery, which constitutes the bulk of the $50,000,000 business we do with you now."

"Americans, as a rule, little appreciate the size of Argentine Republic and its magnificence. The republic is as big as all the territory east of the Mississippi, including also North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota. Our country will, in time, be the granary of the world. In 1900 in the United States there were 52,589,000 acres of wheat. In Argentina we have now 80,000,000 acres under cultivation and an average yield of 20 bushels to the acre.

"Buenos Ayres is as large as Philadelphia. You may not realize that. It has 14 theaters and three grand opera houses, one of which cost $2,000,000. Senator Portela first came to the United States as an attaché of the legation during Gen. Grant's second term as president. Later he became minister to Brazil, Chile and Spain, and in 1905 he returned again to the United States as envoy. By profession he is a newspaperman, being an editorial writer on La Nacion before he entered diplomacy.

HURLED FROM POWER

With Col. Georges Picquart, alternately France's military hero and the target for her opprobrium, fate has played a pretty game of battledore. A bureau clerk with a military rank and title, he became a national character when the Dreyfus affair was at its height by suddenly espousing the cause of that officer at the moment of his greatest unpopularity. As a consequence, Picquart was hated, cursed, threatened, ridiculed. But history moves rapidly in la belle France and public opinion races between extremes. After Zola and the courts of last degree, Dreyfus was freed, whitewashed, cheered and promoted. Upon the national wave of reaction his friends like Picquart rode to quick popularity. Eventually it went so far in the latter's case as to make him minister of war in the cabinet of the republic—practical head, under the president, of the military establishment of France.

Now, with no sin of his own omission or commission to thank, the wheel has turned round again. Col. Picquart is hurled with equal suddenness from his pedestal, no more to be courted by generals and senators, no more to gracefully ride across the upper end of the review fields while cannons roar, bands crash and divisions cheer. Because his premier, head of the cabinet, in an unguarded moment permitted his temper to run away with his tongue in the chamber, to be outpointed with the oratorical foils of finesse by his ancient enemy, Delcasse, the ministry tumbles—not only Clemenceau, but his fellows, including Col. Georges Picquart, plaything of the jocular gods that be in modern France.

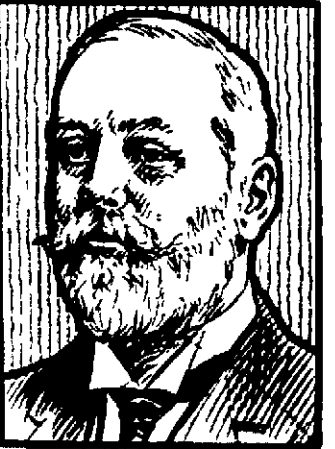

TO HEAD ENGLAND'S NAVY

Admiral Sir Arthur Moore, K. C. B., K. C. V., O. C. M. G., who will succeed Sir John Fisher in October next as the active head of the English navy, is a sailor who has risen to his present position by sheer hard work and competence. He is not a spectacular person, like Lord Charles Beresford or his immediate predecessor, Sir John Fisher, but he has distinguished himself by always doing the job that was given him in excellent shape and without any unnecessary fuss and noise. Patriotic Englishmen hope that his advent at the admiralty will mark the end of the petty personal and political jealousies which have done so much harm to the service recently.

Admiral Moore is now 62 years old. He entered the navy in 1860, and was specially promoted for his services during the Egyptian war of 1882, when he commanded the Orion and was present at the battle of Tel-El-Kebir. He was one of the British representatives at the Anti-Slavery congress at Brussels in 1889, and he was also a naval aide-de-camp to the late Queen Victoria. He was commander-in-chief at the Cape station during the South African war and his last command was at the China station. He held this until last year, since which he has been on the inactive list.

PROPOSES GREAT CANAL

W. J. Botterill, a London (England) civil engineer, has proposed the building of a sea level canal 120 feet wide and 21 feet deep across England, from Yarmouth, the naval base of the British Isles on the North sea, to the Bristol channel, 240 miles away. The proposed canal would also have a branch to Birmingham, an important commercial city, making it a port for sea-going vessels. This section, which would connect with the main canal at Oxford, would be 60 miles long.

Engineer Botterill declares the main idea of the canal to be commerce, but, of course, the naval defense England has expected to make for herself in the European war that always threatens comes up for consideration. With this idea in view Mr. Botterill would provide a fortified naval base at Rockland, a few miles from Yarmouth, where 40 Dreadnoughts could be docked and there would be 400 acres of safe water.

Another advantage of the proposed canal, the author of the idea says, would be the sailing of vessels from New York right past the Oxford universities.

"KID COTTON KING" BROKE

Jesse L. Livermore, "kid cotton king," at the age of 31, when he looked more as if he were only 21, has gone the way of the speculator. Jesse is broke. Out of three big guesses as to which way the cotton market would go he guessed right once. That guess brought him $3,000,000. But he lost $1,000,000 of this "building" the market in August of 1908. The price of cotton suddenly dropped $2.50 a bale. This last time Jesse sold short in cotton and also in wheat, in both of which the "wheat king" of Chicago, James A. Patten, has been operating. Patten guessed right, but Livermore didn't.

Consequently his name has been erased from the doors of E. F. Hutton & Co.

Jesse first saw the light in Shrewsbury, Mass., in 1877. His first speculative attempt netted him $3.12. With a boy friend he took a flyer in Burlington & Quincy in a local bucket shop in 1893—just 16 years old, you see. By the time he was 21 he had $5,000 or $9,000, all made in speculation.

Designs of Merit

LAWN DRESS.—Of course, this dress is made up without lining in either bodice or skirt. Our model is in white lawn, but colored lawn or white spotted or printed muslin would be equally suitable.

The skirt, which is slightly full at the waist, has a deep-gathered flounce that is trimmed with insertion; it is gathered at the top, then set to insertion, which is joined to the edge of skirt below the three tucks; the top is gathered to a waist-band fastened at the back.

The bodice is cut to the waist, and is joined to top of skirt-band; it has a yoke of open-work embroidery outlined with insertion; the lawn is tucked three times between band and yoke. The lawn sleeves are also tucked, the tight-fitting lower parts being of embroidery to match the yoke. The waist-band fastens at the side under a rosette, from which hangs a knotted end finished with tassels.

Materials required: 10 yards lawn 36 inches wide, 1 1/4 yards embroidery 18 inches wide, about 8 1/2 yards insertion.

Design for Linen.—Here is a semi-princess dress of linen in a soft shade of pink. The front panel, that extends the whole length of skirt and bodice, is edged outside with embroidery edging about two inches wide; this is set under a beading of embroidery, through which narrow ribbon is threaded; the skirt is tucked twice above the hem at sides and back; and the fulness at waist is set in tiny tucks extending over the hips, tucks are also made over the shoulders, and in sets of three round the sleeve. The fastening is in center back.

Hat of fancy crinoline, trimmed with ribbon and ostrich feather tips. Materials required: for the dress, 7 yards 42 inches wide, 4 yards embroidery, 4 yards insertion.

WAYS OF CLEANING CHIFFON.

Material Requires Care in Cleansing, and Some Time Must Be Devoted to the Work.

Chiffon should be washed in soap lather by carefully rolling and pressing between the hands, then rinsed in clean water and stiffened in gum water, one tablespoonful to a quarter of a pint of water.

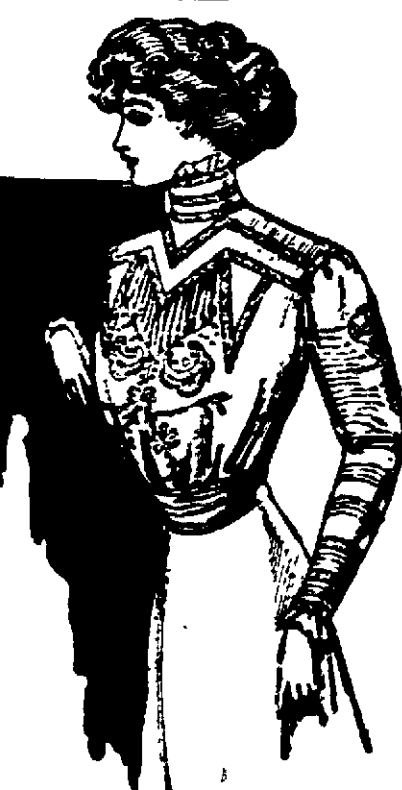

Roll in a cloth to absorb some of the moisture, but it must not be too dry when it is ironed.

To iron chiffon, it must be placed on the table wrong side up and ironed along the selvedge, as ironing across would displace the fibers and destroy the appearance of the delicate fabric. When the chiffon is being ironed it ought to be held tightly up in front of the iron to remove crinkles that are produced by washing and to make it quite even and smooth.

Chiffon ties with a natural crepon crinkle should not be ironed, but instead the ends should be pinned out on a table, the tie just stretched enough to permit of the crinkles falling into their natural shape.

When dry fold it without pressing the folds in, air and put carefully away.

LINGERIE WAIST.

Dainty waist of linen batiste made with groups of tucks and elaborately trimmed with embroidery and cluny lace.

Hat Brims Turned Up.

Hats are turned up at all angles around the brim, and the small hats are made by turning up the brim of an ordinary size hat very sharply at each side, while the brim in front and at the back is quite narrow. Sometimes the brim is turned up at the right side (while the trimming is exclusively on the left), and sometimes at the back.

CHIFFON FOR THE SLEEVES.

Gives Right Touch to the Transparent Materials So Popular in Hot Weather.

The fashion of wearing transparent sleeves is certainly a comfortable one during warm weather; hence its great popularity, for these sleeves cover every type of arm imaginable—arms so fat they resemble small bolsters, thin arms, white arms and sawtooth ones. Indeed, until one has spent half an hour in the shopping district it is hard to believe there could be such a variety of arms. The fashion may be a pretty one as well as a comfortable one if the wearers would only back the sleeves with a thin white chiffon or mousseline de soie. This tone may be used whether the sleeves are white, black or a color.

A novelty in parasols is being shown by a Broadway house that will appeal to patriotic young women. The covering is of the regulation tan khaki, embroidered with emblems of the different regiments in scarlet mercerized thread.

Another novelty displayed at the same shop is a line of very pretty raffia belts at $1 each. For wear with a tan linen or a pongee frock these raffia accessories are considered very smart.—Washington Star.

To Stretch Curtains.

Use a quilting frame or a curtain stretcher converted into a quilting frame by tacking strips of ticking or any heavy material doubled to inch width on the inner edges of the frame where pins have been. Temporarily pin the curtains on four corners and at intervals on side, then sew them on, instead of pinning them, with a basting stitch. Scalloped edged curtains can be sewed on two at a time and three or more plain edged ones. It is surprising to see no peaks in scallops or straight edges and with less labor and time spent and with no sore fingers.

The Scarf.

There is no end to the variety of the scarf. A remarkably pretty one was in a soft tone of pale blue, the ends embroidered in graduated gold spots. Another was in a curiously patterned green gauze, with blue in it. This was bordered with dull silver gauze laid on in a flat band all round, and hemstitched. Even more curious is a gray gauze with the ends embroidered in overlapping scales like those of a fish, but in mother-of-pearl, not in the least like the ordinary sequin, but resembling some of the wonderful Japanese embroideries of the same kind.

Buttons.

Buttons covered with the material of the gown on which they are employed are the latest development. A toward frock just home from the dressmaker is trimmed solely with cords covered with the silk and with buttons of the same order.

STATE HAPPENINGS

New Richmond.—A religious movement, which the promoters confidently predict is to become national in scope, has been inaugurated in this city, called the "Religious Day School." It is interdenominational and its object is to teach religious principles to the children. It is open to all interested, regardless of age or church affiliations. The principal text book used is the Bible.

Iron River.—Otto Pudas was drowned in the Iron river, ten miles north of this city. Against the advice of his companions he swam out into midstream and was apparently overcome by exhaustion and attempted to swim back, but his strength was not sufficient to battle against the strong current. The young man was 20 years old.

Plymouth.—During the last two or three weeks a number of burglaries have taken place at Elkhart lake. The gallery of Bratz & Zierer was entered and an expensive camera taken. A camera was taken from one of the cottages, and a sneak thief entered one of the cottages taking several pieces of silverware and a small amount of money.

Menomonie.—The two and four-year-old sons of P. H. Swensen, playing with matches, set fire to a barn. Peter, aged four, was burned to death and the younger brother probably fatally burned. The barn was totally destroyed, together with barns belonging to P. B. Clark and E. S. Roach. Property loss estimated at $3,500.

Janesville.—A severe electrical storm almost reaching the portions of a hurricane swept over the county north of Janesville. Barns on the McCortney farm burned, loss $4,500. Valuable cattle on the McLay farm were killed and small buildings and trees blown down. A heavy rain followed.

Schlesingerville.—Business men and farmers organized the Farmers' Supply Company, with a capital stock of $10,000. The object of the company is to deal in grain, flour and feed, lumber, wire, lime, tile, coal, cement, and all kinds of building material.

Waupaca.—The Waupaca-Green Bay railway installed a wireless telegraph system between its station and the general office in this city, and the other terminal of the line at Scandinavia, 11 miles distant. This is the first line in Wisconsin to do its entire train dispatching by wireless.

Milwaukee.—Fearing that her husband would carry out his alleged threat to leave her, Mrs. Libbie Wilson, aged 18 years, a bride of four weeks, drank carbolic acid in her home, 545 Van Buren street, and died in Emergency hospital 40 minutes after she reached the place.

Neenah.—While starting a fire in a paper mill, Al Zehner fell into a bed of hot coals. Before he could be rescued his right arm had been burned to the bone. Other parts of his body were also badly burned. He is in a precarious condition.

Milwaukee.—Mary Wagner, aged 20 years, West Allis, was held by the police in connection with the discovery of a new-born baby's body in a suit case left in the public service building. The young woman was arrested when she came to claim the suit case.

Eau Claire.—Rodich Ortman, aged 15, was brought from Augusta to the Sacred Heart hospital at Eau Claire in a serious condition as the result of an accidental shooting near the lad's home at Augusta, where Ortman was hunting. The gun exploded.

Madison.—A joint meeting of the Wisconsin and Minnesota Library associations will be held at Superior and Duluth, September 15 to 18. A full attendance of Wisconsin librarians is desired by Miss Lottie E. Stearns, acting secretary.

Neenah.—City improvements are a noticeable feature of the advancement of Neenah and Menasha this summer. Five streets are being paved with concrete and one with tar macadam.

Barron.—Charles Anderson, a former resident of Sparta, while driving from Barron to Cumberland was killed when his horse became frightened at an auto and threw him out on his head. His neck was broken.

Janesville.—Roy S. Lawson and Jesse Wells, two local youths arrested on a charge of highway robbery, pleaded not guilty and were held for trial.

Wrightstown.—Henry Zuehl was probably fatally injured by a bull which knocked him down and gored him. The animal was driven away by his wife and neighbors.

Marblehead.—The strike of 250 lime kiln workers affecting two lime kilns at Marblehead and one at Hamilton, was settled, the men returning to work at the old scale, $1.60 per day.

Neenah.—Work has been started on a new $10,000 church for the German Lutheran congregation, of which Rev. A. Kleinhaus is pastor.

Jefferson.—The names of about twenty-five habitual drinkers have been forwarded to the licensed dealers by the council with a caution against selling any of the number any intoxicating liquors.

Eagle River.—Mrs. E. F. Hayward of Rummeles fell from a hammock and struck her head against a tree, which resulted in the loss of her speech.

Kenosha.—Leo Burdick of the village of Bristol, who disappeared from the state hospital for the insane at Racine ten days ago, was found at Waukesha.

AN EASY WAY.

How to Cure Kidney Troubles Easily and Quickly.

It is needless to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the misery of backaches, rheumatic pains, urinary disorders, or risk the danger of diabetes or Bright's disease. The cure is easy. Treat the cause—the kidneys—with

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the shipwreck of the steamer on which Miss Genevieve Leslie, an American heiress, Lord Winthrop, an Englishman, and Tom Blake, a brusque American, were passengers. The three were tossed upon an uninhabited island and were the only ones not drowned. Blake recovered from a drunk stupor, Leslie, stunned on the boat, because of his roughness, became a hero as preserver of the helpless pair. The Englishman was suing for the hand of Miss Leslie. Blake started to swim back to the ship to recover what was left. Blake returned safely. Winthrop wasted his last match on a cigarette, for which he was scolded by Blake. Their first meal was a dead fish. The two started a ten mile hike for higher land. Thirst attacked them. Blake was compelled to carry Miss Leslie on account of weariness.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

At first his throat was so dry that he could no more than rinse his mouth. With the first swallow his swollen tongue mocked him with the salt, bitter taste of sea-water. The tide was flowing! He rose, sputtering and choking and gasping. He stared around. There was no question that he was on the bank of a river and would be certain of fresh water with the ebb tide. But could he endure the agony of his thirst all those hours?

He thought of his companions. "Good God!" he groaned, "they're goners, anyway!"

He stared dully up the river at the thousands of waterfowl which lined its banks. Within close view were herons and black ibises, geese, pelicans, flamingoes, and a dozen other species of birds of which he did not know the names. But he sat as though in a stupor, and did not move even when one of the driftwood logs on a mud-shoal a few yards upstream opened an enormous mouth and displayed two rows of hooked fangs. It was otherwise when the noontime stillness was broken by a violent splashing and loud snortings down-stream. He glanced about and saw six or eight monstrous heads drifting towards him with the tide.

"What in—Whee! a whole herd of hippos!" he muttered. "That's what the holes mean."

The foremost hippopotamus was headed directly for him. He glared at the huge head with sullen resentment. For all his stupor he perceived at once that the beast intended to land; and he sat in the middle of its accustomed path. His first impulse was to spring up and yell at the creature. Then he remembered hearing that a white hunter had recently been killed by these beasts on one of the South African lakes. Instead of leaping up he sank down almost flat and crawled back around the turn in the path. Once certain that he was hidden from the beasts he rose to his feet and hastened back through the jungle.

He was almost in view of the spot where he had left Winthrop and Miss Leslie, when he stopped and stood hesitating.

"I can't do it," he muttered; "I can't tell her—poor girl!"

He turned and pushed into the thicket. Forcing a way through the tangle of thorny shrubs and creepers until several yards from the path he began to edge towards the face of the jungle, that he might peer out at his companions unseen by them.

There was more of the thicket before him than he had thought, and he was still fighting his way through it when he was brought to a stand by a peculiar cry that might have been the bleat of a young lamb: "Ba—ba!"

"What's that?" he croaked.

He stood listening, and in a moment he again heard the cry, this time more distinctly: "Blak!—Blak!"

There could be no mistake. It was Winthrop calling for him, and calling with a clearness of voice that would have been physically impossible half an hour since. Blake's sunken eyes lighted with hope. He burst through the last screen of jungle and stared towards the palm under which he had left his companions. They were not there.

Another call from Winthrop directed his gaze more seaward. The two were seated beside a fallen palm, and Miss Leslie had a large round object raised to her lips. Winthrop was waving to him.

"Coconuts!" he yelled. "Come on!"

Three of the palms had been overthrown by the hurricane, and when Blake came up he found the ground strewn with nuts. He seized the first he came to; but Winthrop held out one already opened. He snatched it from him and placed the hole to his swollen lips. Never had champagne tasted half so delicious as that coconut milk. Before he could drain the last of it through the little opening Winthrop had the husks torn from the ends of two other nuts, and the convenient germinal spots gouged open with his penknife.

Blake emptied the third before he spoke. Even then his voice was hoarse and strained. "How'd you strike 'em?"

"I couldn't help it," explained Winthrop. "Hardly had you disappeared when I noticed the tops of the fallen palms and thought of the nuts. There was one in the grass not 20 feet from where we lay."

"Lucky for you—and for me, too, I guess," said Blake. "We were all three down for the count. But this settles the first round in our favor. How do you like the picnic, Miss Jenny?"

"Miss Leslie, if you please," replied the girl, with hauteur.

"Oh, say, Miss Jenny!" protested Blake, genially. "We live in the same boarding house now. Why not be folksy? You're free to call me Tom. Pass me another nut, Winthrop. Thanks! By the way, what's your front name? Saw it aboard ship—Cyril?"

"Cecil," corrected Winthrop, in a low tone.

"Cecil—Lord Cecil, eh?—or is it only the Honorable Cecil?"

"My dear sir, I have intimidated before that, for reasons of—er—state—"

"Oh, yes; you're traveling incog, in the secret service. Sort of detective—"

"Detective!" echoed Winthrop, in a peculiar tone.

Blake grinned. "Well, it is rather a new business for your honorable ludship. But there's nothing like calling things by their right names."

"Right names—er—I don't quite take you. I have told you distinctly my name is Cecil Winthrop!"

"O-h-h! how lovely!—See-silly! See-silly!—But they called you Sissy at school. English chum of mine told me your schools are corks for nicknames. What'll we make it—Sis or Sissy?"

"I prefer my patronymic, Mr. Blake," replied Winthrop.

"All right, then; we'll make it Pat, if that's your choice. I say, Pat, this juice is the stuff for wetness, but it makes a fellow remember his grub. Where'd you leave that fish?"

"Really, I can't just say, but it must have been where I wrenched my ankle."

"You can't just say! And what are we going to eat?"

"Here are the coconuts."

"Bright boy! go to the head of the class! Just take some more husk off those empty ones."

Winthrop caught up one of the nuts, and with the aid of his knife stripped it of its husk. At a gesture from Blake he laid it on the bare ground and the American burst it open with a blow of his heel. It was an immature nut, and the meat proved to be little thicker than clotted cream. Blake divided it into three parts, handing Miss Leslie the cleanest.

Though his companions began with more restraint, they finished their shares with equal gusto. Winthrop needed no further orders to return to his husking. One after another the nuts were cracked and divided among the three, until even Blake could not swallow another mouthful of the luscious cream.

Toward the end Miss Leslie had become drowsy. At Winthrop's urging, she now lay down for a nap. Blake's coat serving as a pillow. She fell asleep while Winthrop was yet arranging it for her. Blake had turned his back on her and was staring moodily at the hippopotamus trail when Winthrop hobbled around and sat down on the palm trunk beside him.

"I say, Blake," he suggested, "I feel deuced fagged myself. Why not all take a nap?"

"And when they awoke, they were all dead men," remarked Blake.

"By Jove, that sounds like a joke," protested the Englishman. "Don't rag me now."

"Joke!" repeated Blake. "Why, that's Scripture, Pat, Scripture! Anyway, you'd think it no joke to wake up and find yourself going down the throat of a hippo."

"Hippo?"

"Dozens of them over in the river. Shouldn't wonder if they've all landed and're tracking me down by this time."

"But hippopotami are not carnivorous—they're not at all dangerous, unless one wounds them, out in the water."

"That may be; but I'm not taking chances. They've got mouths like sperm whales—I saw one take a yawn. Another thing, that bayou is chuck full of alligators, and a fellow down on the Rand told me they're like the Central American gavials for keenness to nip a swimmer."

"They will not come out on this dry land."

"Suppose they won't—there're no other animals in Africa but sheep, eh?"

"What can we do? The captain told me that there are both lions and leopards on this coast."

"Nice place for them, too, around these trees," added Blake. "Lucky for us, they're night-birds mostly—if that Rand fellow didn't lie. He was a Boer, so I guess he ought to know."

"To be sure. It's a nasty fix we're in for to-night. Could we not build some kind of a barricade?"

"With a penknife! Guess we'll roost in a tree."

"But cannot leopards climb? It seems to me that I have heard—"

"How about lions?"

"They cannot; I'm sure of that."

"Then we'll chance the leopards. Just stretch out here and nurse that ankle of yours. I don't want to be lugging you all year. I'm going to hunt a likely tree."

CHAPTER V.

The Re-Ascent of Man.

AFTERNOON was far advanced and Winthrop was beginning to feel anxious when at last Blake pushed out from among the close thickets. As he approached he swung an unshapely club of green wood, pausing every few paces to test its weight and balance on a bush or knob of dirt.

"By Jove!" called Winthrop; "that's not half bad! You look as if you could bowl over an ox."

Blake showed that he was flattered. "Oh, I don't know," he responded; "the thing's blundering unhandy. Just the same, I guess we'll be ready for callers to-night."

"How's that?"

"Show you later, Pat, me b'y. Now trot out some nuts. We'll feed before we move camp."

"Miss Leslie is still sleeping."

"Time, then, to rouse her out. Hey, Miss Jenny, turn out! Time to chew."

Miss Leslie sat up and gazed around in bewilderment.

"It's all right, Miss Genevieve," reassured Winthrop. "Blake has found a safe place for the night, and he wishes us to eat before we leave here."

"Save lugging the grub," added Blake. "Get busy, Pat."

As Winthrop caught up a nut the girl began to arrange her disordered hair and dress with the deft and graceful movements of a woman thoroughly trained in the art of self-adornment. There was admiration in Blake's deep eyes as he watched her dainty preening. She was not a beautiful girl—at present she could hardly be termed pretty; yet even in her draggled, muddy dress she retained all the subtle charms of culture which appeal so strongly to a man. Blake was subdued. His feelings even carried him so far as an attempt at formal politeness when they had finished their meal.

"Now, Miss Leslie," he began, "it's little more than half an hour to sundown; so, if you please, if you're ready, we'd best be starting."

"Is it far?"

"Not so very. But we've got to chase through the jungle. Are you sure you're quite ready?"

"Quite, thank you. But how about Mr. Winthrop's ankle?"

"He'll ride as far as the trees. I can't squeeze through with him, though."

"I shall walk all the way," put in Winthrop.

"No, you won't. Climb aboard," replied Blake, and catching up his club he stooped for Winthrop to mount his back. As he rose with his burden Miss Leslie caught sight of his coat, which still lay in a roll beside the palm trunk.

"How about your coat, Mr. Blake?" she asked. "Should you not put it on?"

"No; I'm loaded now. Have to ask you to look after it. You may need it before morning, anyway. If the dew here are like those in Central America they are d-darned liable to bring on malarial fever."

Nothing more was said until they had crossed the open space between the palms and the belt of jungle along the river. At other times Winthrop and Miss Leslie might have been interested in the towering screw-palms, festooned to the top with climbers, and in the huge ferns which they could see beneath the mangroves in the swampy ground on their left. Now, however, they were far too concerned with the question of how they should penetrate the dense tangle of thorny brush and creepers which rose before them like a green wall. Even Blake hesitated as he released Winthrop and looked at Miss Leslie's costume. Her white skirt was of stout duck; but the flimsy material of her waist was ill-suited for rough usage.

"Better put the coat on unless you want to come out on the other side in full evening dress," he said. "There's no use kicking, but I wish you'd happened to have on some sort of a jacket when we got spilled."

"Is there no path through the thicket?" inquired Winthrop.

"Only the hippo trail, and it don't go our way. We've got to run our own line. Here's a stick for your game ankle."

Winthrop took the half-green branch which Blake broke from the nearest tree and turned to assist Miss Leslie with the coat. The garment was of such coarse cloth that as Winthrop drew the collar close about her throat Miss Leslie could not forego a little grimace of repugnance. The crease between Blake's eyes deepened, and the girl hastened to utter an explanatory exclamation: "Not so tight, Mr. Winthrop, please! It scratches my neck."

Crocodiles Along the Nile.

At the sound of the shot the whole of this bank of the river, over the extent of at least a quarter of a mile, sprang into hideous life, and my companions and I saw hundreds of crocodiles, of all sorts and sizes, rushing madly into the Nile, whose waters along the line of the shore were lashed into white foam, exactly as a heavy wave had broken.

It could be no exaggeration to say that at least a thousand of these saurians had been disturbed at a single shot.—Strand Magazine.

Wretched Pay for Labor.

At a hearing last summer in London on the "sweating" question, evidence was brought forward showing that 56 women who sewed hooks and eyes on cards earned at an average a little over 75 cents a week. Another woman was instanced who worked from nine one morning until the next morning and earned 16 cents in that time. It would seem better to die.

IN THREE STYLES

APPETIZING DISHES FOR THOSE FOND OF CHICKEN.

Served a la Marengo It is a Favorite with Eastern Cooks—Spanish Style with Rice—Good Tamale Receipt.

Chicken a la Marengo.—To prepare this excellent dish, Dorchester, cut a large fowl into eight or ten pieces, put in a stewpan with one cupful of good salad oil, and cook over a moderate fire until browned. Now sprinkle in one tablespoonful of flour, and when this is browned pour in one pint of water and let simmer until tender, which will be for about half an hour. Skim off the fat, add half a cupful of small mushrooms, season delicately with salt, pepper, sugar and garlic or onion, then take out the meat and keep it hot while you boil down the gravy. When this sticks to the spoon, pour over the meat and serve. Rice may be substituted for potato with this dish.

Chicken and Rice, Spanish Style.—Stew the fowl until tender, steam half a pound of moistened rice till soft, and fry the meat in a cupful of olive oil, to which has been added a clove of garlic and three medium-sized onions chopped fine. Next, put the chicken in a baking dish, cover it with the rice and the onion-flavored oil, and last of all pour over one can each of sweet peppers and tomatoes. Cook just until the tomatoes are done, then pepper and salt lightly and serve piping hot.

Spanish Tamales.—For the benefit of the same reader, as well as of others who like southern cookery, I have a good tamale recipe to add: Put one large chicken to boil in hot water, with a good pinch of salt, five chopped onions, a breadcrust into which a little garlic has been rubbed, five cloves, five allspice, two red peppers and one stick of cinnamon broken fine. When tender remove the meat from the bones of the fowl, chop, strain the broth and return chicken and broth to the fire with enough cornmeal to make a mush. After ten minutes of boiling add the corn scraped from ten green ears, a pound and a half of seeded raisins, a cupful of cooked green peas and string beans cut up, with a taste of red pepper, and if needed, flour to thicken the mush. Fill the corn husks with this paste, tie them up carefully, boil for half an hour more and serve.—Boston Herald.

Lemon Syrup for Summer Drink.

Take the juice of 12 lemons, grate the rind of six in it, let it stand overnight, then take six pounds of sugar and make a thick syrup, when it is quite cool. Strain the juice into it and squeeze as much oil from the grated rind as will suit the taste, bottle and keep sealed tight. A tablespoonful in a goblet of water will make a delicious drink on a hot day, far superior to that prepared from stuff called lemon syrup that one buys.

Home-Made Baking Powder.

A culinary authority gives the following recipe for home-made baking powder: Mix together cream of tartar, bicarbonate of soda and wheat flour in the following proportions: To every two tablespoonfuls of the cream of tartar add a tablespoonful of soda and into every cupful of the mixture stir about a tablespoonful of wheat flour. Mix all thoroughly together in a tin box with a tight fitting cover.

Italian Potatoes.

Cut six cold boiled potatoes into dice. Make a thick cream sauce by melting in a sauce-pan a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter, and stirring in half a pint of milk. When the sauce is ready put a layer of potatoes in a buttered baking dish. Then a layer of sauce, next a layer of cheese cut in dice and so on until the dish is full. Bake in a moderate oven until the potatoes are brown on top.

To Iron Linen Dresses.

Pin two bath towels, one upon the other, smoothly over the ironing board. Do not sprinkle, but put the skirt upon the board wrong side out. Wet a yard of cheesecloth, wring it lightly, and putting it over the goods, iron from hem to band until thoroughly dry, using heavy irons. In this way you will avoid "rocks" in the skirt and dust from the floor upon wet goods.

Pickled Currants.

This is an old Virginia recipe. One pound of brown sugar, four pounds of ripe currants, one tablespoonful of ground allspice, two tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon and one teaspoonful of good vinegar. Put all together in the kettle and boil for half an hour. Put into the jars and seal while hot.

Mending Table Linen.

A neat way to mend a hole in table linen is to darn it with linen threads off an old tablecloth. It will look much neater than a patch sewed on. It is advisable to keep a piece of a discarded tablecloth in the mending basket for that purpose.

Curried Eggs.

Four eggs, one ounce of butter, one ounce of chopped onion, half an ounce of flour, one gill of milk and water, one teaspoonful of curry powder, the juice of half a lemon, boiled rice.

To Clean Paint.

A clean cloth dipped in hot water, then a saucer of bran, will speedily clean white paint without injury to it. The soft bran acts like soap on the dirt.

Troubles Cured by Cuticura.

"When my little Vivian was about six months old her head broke out in boils. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her entirely. Some time later a humor broke out behind her ears and spread up on to her head until it was nearly half covered. The humor looked like a scald, very red with a sticky, clear fluid coming from it. This occurred every spring. I always used Cuticura Soap and Ointment which never failed to heal it up. The last time it broke out it became so bad that I was discouraged. But I continued the use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent until she was well and has never been troubled in the last two years. Mrs. M. A.
